Washington — "Any one who tries to drive a wedge between President Coolidge and myself will find it a little job."

His spoke Herbert Hoover several months ago when an attempt was made in congress to get him to testify at Versailles with President Coolidge on the Mississippi flood appropriations. And it applies with equal force today to the situation that has arisen with respect to the cruiser bill pending in congress.

Mr. Hoover has made it clear that he sides with Mr. Coolidge in the controversy. And he has been trying to make it clear that so long as Mr. Coolidge is president he alone is chief executive and there is no possibility of bringing about a break between them.

Just after the nomination at Kansas City Mr. Hoover put his foot down on what appeared to be the beginning of friction. He recalled to friends that the coolness that developed between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft had its origin almost immediately after the convention and that the appearance of two rival camps would not be permitted this time if he could help it.

CONSULTS COOLIDGE
So when Mr. Hoover decided to go to South America he consulted Mr. Coolidge. Which he came back here to tell him. Whenever pending questions required a decision that might affect his future administration, Mr. Hoover consulted President Coolidge. The intimacy between the two men is not an accident or a studied effort to give the impression of harmony. It is the real thing based on an appreciation of each other and a respect for ability and capacity.

Incidentally this is not to be taken to mean that Mr. Hoover will be committed to follow every Coolidge policy literally. Mr. Coolidge does not expect him to do any such thing. The president has recently told callers that he thinks every chief executive has not only a right to his own opinions and policies but that natural differences of judgment arise as circumstances require.

Mr. Coolidge knows that on the fundamental policies of the next administration Mr. Hoover will be in accord with his predecessor for the simple reason Mr. Hoover himself had a big part in shaping those very policies.

The fact that Mr. Hoover telegraphed so promptly from Florida, or adding the impression that he was opposed to Mr. Coolidge's view of the cruiser program, was considered here far more significant measure in relation to this particular measure.

It means that the Coolidge-Hoover blend, or transition, is to be accomplished in an atmosphere of friendship rather than in rivalry.

Several Death Sentences
Rumored for Revolt Against Dictator

Madrid — (AP) — Rumors from Ciudad Real Wednesday said that several sentences of death had been passed after a summary court martial inquired into the rebellion of the army there. An artillery general who was the ring leader in the whole affair was believed to have escaped over the Portuguese frontier.

UPRISING ENDED
Later Premier Primo de Rivera appeared before the assembly and announced that the revolt was at an end, and tranquility had been restored throughout the country.

The revolt started when a regiment of field artillery at Ciudad Real rolled out their cannon so as to command the roads and approaches to the walled city. When word of the disorder reached the capital General Orgaz started south with an infantry brigade from Madrid. Several squadrons of cavalry clustered out of the ancient city of Alcala and a large and heavily armed force of civil guards proceeded south in motorbuses.

During their control of the city the mutineers prevented all trains from entering or leaving, but order was restored after the planes flew over with their offers of peace. The revolt, which was planned to break out simultaneously throughout Spain, also was reported to have shown itself at Valencia, Barcelona and Corunna without making any headway.

NASH MAKES PLEA FOR ADEQUATE ROAD SYSTEM

Chicago — (AP) — Inadequate highway development endangers the automobile trade, Charles W. Nash, Kenosha manufacturer, who is attending the automobile show, believes.

The veteran automobile builder urged two level highways in metropolitan centers to offset lagging highway development, which, he said, would ultimately cause a decline in automobile production and progress.

"I have noticed frequent predictions that there will be 50,000,000 cars in use by 1950," he said. "If there are, it is obvious that at least twice the present highway capacity must be provided before that time."

"Every man in our industry must take a personal interest in traffic improvement and look ahead at least five years in aiding plans of authorities for national, state and county and city programs for wider highways, grade separations and unimpeded through fares."

Doctor Wins Exciting Race With Stork Near New London

Farmers in Outagamie co. snow-bound by what they term the worst storms they have seen in 30 years, have pulled out the old sleighs and cutters, hitched up their horses and are going about their work as if they didn't know automobiles existed.

Except in a few widely scattered sections of rural territory the use of automobiles has been made impossible. Huge drifts have piled up on every road and to use the words of one farmer's wife:

"There are now no roads at all!"

Except for opening a few of the most important state and federal trunk highways — after a long struggle the county snow removal equipment has been proved inadequate to cope with snow of the depth experienced this year.

Farmers everywhere are certain it was the worst period of stormy weather which the county has known. They say there have been worse storms but never has there been such a succession of storms.

In at least one instance, the closed roads, might have proven serious. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hoffman, who live about five miles north of New London, were expecting the stork.

A doctor was called from New London. He was stalling in a snow drift with his car and couldn't get back to the city or ahead to the farm.

An emergency call was sent out for a second doctor who started for the farm in a snowmobile. Two miles from the city, however, his machine stalled in a drift. There was desperate need for speed.

The doctor went back and started out a second time by another road and this time was within three miles of his destination when he again was stalled. This called for an emergency measure. Something had to be done.

THEY GOT THERE
Four men with a team and sleigh were called into use and after fighting the snowdrifts reached the Hoffman home just in time for the doctor to help the stork deliver a daughter.

It was indeed lucky that Harry DeBruin, farmer living at the junction of Highways 26 and 10 only two miles from Greenville, had a well-filled larder. During the storm Friday night he and his wife fed more than 50 people.

Traffic on two highways passing the DeBruin home was stopped and the snowdrifts stalled took refuge with the family. At one time, according to neighbors, 27 cars were parked within a short distance of the DeBruin home and all of the occupants were given shelter in the residence.

When it came time to eat Mrs. DeBruin just prepared meals for the gang. Although she couldn't re-

Leaves Bulk of Estate to Girl Known as Daughter

New York — (AP) — The true relationship of the "mystery child" to Babe Ruth's late wife was established Wednesday in Mrs. Ruth's will.

The document, filed in surrogate's court, left the bulk of $50,000 estate to "my beloved charge and ward, Dorothy Helen Ruth, at one time known as Marie Harrington."

Babe Ruth was cut off with a bequest of five dollars. The same amount was left to Mrs. Ruth's mother and to each of her four brothers and three sisters.

At the time of Mrs. Ruth's death in a fire which destroyed the home of Dr. E. H. Kinder, dentist of Watertown, Mass., Jan. 31, conflicting reports were in circulation regarding whether Dorothy was the offspring of the ball player and his wife or a foster child.

In the petition for probate filed by James J. Conlin, named as executor of the estate, it was declared "on information and belief the said child was the daughter of the said Babe Ruth and Dorothy Helen Ruth."

The machine left Peshawar Tuesday and returned to Rissalpur for minor adjustments. Then it started for Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan, but did not arrive there.

Says Additional $24,000,000 Would Accomplish Its Intended Purpose

Washington — (AP) — Secretary Mellon, in a letter to Chairman Anthony of the house appropriations committee, Wednesday reiterated his opinion that the proposal to appropriate an additional $24,000,000 to enforce prohibition would not accomplish the purpose intended.

The secretary said that under the terms of the amendment the fund would not be available for any purpose except that of increasing the personnel of the bureau of prohibition and the department of justice.

It could not be used for an educational campaign, he declared, and even such essential incidental expenses as rent, office equipment, supplies and traveling expenses could not be paid from it.

TEXT OF NOTE
"It is my understanding," the secretary wrote, "that in order to make prohibition enforcement more effective the senate intended to provide additional funds for certain purposes, such as: the relief of congestion in the courts; increasing the fleet, equipment and personnel of the coast guard; increasing the effectiveness of the customs service, including the border patrol, and increasing the personnel of the bureau of prohibition and the department of justice; and that inasmuch as it was impossible definitely to allocate the sums to be spent for certain specified purposes at this time, the additional funds provided were to be allocated as the president in his discretion might decide."

"I feel that it is my duty to point out to you that an examination of the amendment reveals that it will not accomplish the purpose intended. The appropriation will not be available for any of the purposes above enumerated, except increasing the personnel of the bureau of prohibition and the department of justice, nor will it be available for the conduct of an educational program which may have been contemplated."

VIOLENT DEATHS SHOW

Milwaukee — (AP) — The number of violent deaths in this city during 1928 was 26 more than in 1927, according to a report submitted to the county board by coroner Henry Grundman late Tuesday.

There were 451 accidental deaths in 1928 against 174 a year ago. 17 murders compared to 15 in 1927, and 117 suicides as compared to 115 the previous year. Most of the accidental deaths were caused by automobiles.

Los Angeles — (AP) — An element of investigation Tuesday and told the court of the check, which has been disclosed from membership in the American Bar association and law firm.

The court admitted that he had taken an active part in an attempt to "fix" the truth about the case, and that he had been careful to avoid making judicial errors.

"I don't intend to have this investigation hampered," said Little in declining to name the witness.

Mrs. McPherson denied ever being questioned by Little, that she ever had paid bills in cash.

Judge Hardy appeared before the court Tuesday and told the jury that he was not guilty of the offense.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y. — (AP) — Unable to gain altitude in an attempt to establish a new solo endurance flight in which he was using automobile gasoline, Martin Jensen, Hawaii flier, made a forced landing on the beach of the north shore of Long Island Wednesday.

A telephone message was received from him shortly before 1 o'clock, saying that he had been unable to get his ship up and had to land on the beach near Northport.

He suffered no injury and the plane was undamaged, Jensen said, but the tide was coming in and he feared that the plane might be submerged.

Encounters Much Sorrow

Unemployed

London — (AP) — Brought face to face with scenes of sorrow and suffering as he toured the coal fields, the prince of Wales encountered before, the prince of Wales sometimes has had difficulty in finding words to express his sympathy in his tour of the northern coal fields.

The fact that everywhere it was apparent that the sufferers had generally known better days and that the present distress was due to a loss of work greatly touched the prince.

This was illustrated by an incident at Winstanley, where he was visiting the cottage of a miner who had been without work for three years.

The prince was awestruck by the barrenness of the rooms and evidences of extreme poverty. "You must find it very difficult to live," he said to the miner's wife. Describing the visit afterward, she said: "He didn't seem able to say much. He just looked around and his voice sounded broken."

The Daily Express said Wednesday that the prince was risking his health in his tour since he was suffering from a heavy cold and confessed to a friend who aroused him in the early morning that he "felt like death."

He was advised to stay in bed but insisted on starting on his tour although the snow was thick on the ground and the day was raw and foggy.

He had a paper said, "Although it must have been an effort for him to muster up his own spirits."

THEY'RE DEMOCRATS!
At Pelton Lane, Robert Smith, a superannuated miner of 84, smacked the prince on the back and said: "How are you, old man?"

The prince readily replied, "I'm all right, how are you, my boy?" and he returned the smack.

A Mrs. Capp at Newfield gravely entered into the details of the week's holiday and showed the heir to the throne various intimate garments she had been washing and ironing. Another woman dilated on the virtues of her pig.

LIKELY TO FACE PROBE

Madison — (AP) — A petition asking investigation into conduct of the Kenosha co. district attorney's office in the course of the incumbency of Louis A. Powell presented to John W. Reynolds, attorney general, by the strike committee of workers at the Kenosha Allen Co. plant may be answered by sending a deputy, he said Wednesday.

The petition received Tuesday asks an investigation of "several conditions" in the district attorney's office. It charges employment of private detectives and other "unwarranted" expenditures of county money.

The first reply, stating that the company closed shops for economic reasons and requesting that it could not change the order, was followed by this was extending the time for closing to March 1.

"It has been decided to continue operations in mechanical and electrical departments at Kaukauna until March 1. I am glad to advise you of this," the letter said.

SCHOOL COSTS $30,000

Green Bay — (AP) — Fire, which broke out during the noon hour at the high school, estimated to be $30,000 and $20,000 to the main building of the vocational school.

The fire destroyed the front part of a three-story structure which was used as a dormitory for the boys.

The fire was caused by a gas stove which was left burning unattended.

The fire was discovered when a teacher returned to the school after her lunch hour. Three fire engines rushed to the scene and the flames under control by 11:45.

ALL BUT $400
OF BANK LOOT
IS RECOVERED

"Advance Agents" Determined Method of Holdup and Way of Escape

Milwaukee — (AP) — Five men were under arrest here Wednesday, their confessions to participation or complicity in the robbery of the Ixonia State bank were in the hands of authorities, and all but $400 of the $5,000 loot taken in the holdup has been recovered.

Two men, whom detectives trailed to a rooming house, were taken to the police station, together with two girl companions late Monday. Names and addresses of the entire gang were then obtained by the police.

The men arrested are: Herbert J. Jones, 35; Oscar Check, 41; Philip Fortin, 35; Henry Murray, 40; and Charles (Blackie) Schubert, 26. All gave Milwaukee addresses.

MAILED OUT PLANS
Several of the plotters, it was revealed, had driven through Ixonia and obtained "the lay." Before the robbery Fortin drove an automobile coach through the village and parked it four miles west. There he awaited developments.

Check, Jenich and Schubert, their confessions read, followed in a sedan car, while Jenich and Schubert entered the bank and scooped up the money police were told. The trio then sped away to the parked coach car in which was Fortin and shifted the loot to that car.

Fortin got out of the car and the actual participants in the holdup drove the machine through Ixonia and into Milwaukee. Fortin drove the sedan that figured in the holdup into a Watertown garage and left it, coming to Milwaukee by train.

One of the men, Stephen Grenell, 24, who was taken to the police station with the two girls, admitted according to police that he had heard his friend, "Blackie" Schubert, discuss the prospective "job" at Ixonia.

Railroad Company Revokes
Order Closing Repair
Shops on Feb. 1

Closing of the mechanical and car department of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad shops at Kaukauna, scheduled for tomorrow night, has been postponed until March 1, officials of the railroad said Wednesday in a telegram to C. E. Mullen of the Green Bay Goods Co., representing the retail trades division of the chamber of commerce.

A telegram calling attention to the suffering which would be caused by closing the shops was sent Tuesday to William Wallister, vice president in charge of personnel for the railroad company and early Wednesday morning a reply stated that the company was not disposed to change its plans.

A little later another telegram arrived advising Mr. Mullen that the shops would not be closed until March 1.

Mr. Mullen's telegram follows: "William Wallister, vice president in charge of personnel, please defer action on removal of car shops at Kaukauna. Remember, seventy-five cars will be facing cold hard winter without means of sustenance. Surely you will use your authority and spare this drastic order which would bring suffering to hundreds of men, women and children."

The first reply, stating that the company closed shops for economic reasons and requesting that it could not change the order, was followed by this was extending the time for closing to March 1.

"It has been decided to continue operations in mechanical and electrical departments at Kaukauna until March 1. I am glad to advise you of this," the letter said.

JURY DISAGREES IN DRY AGENTS' TRIAL

Fails to Reach Verdict in Shooting Case After 11-hour Session

Elmira, N. Y. — (AP) — A disagreement was reported at the opening of court here Wednesday by the jury considering the case of seven defendants, United States court grand jury charged with manslaughter for the fatal shooting last May 4 of John D. Hane, secretary of Niagara Falls hotel of Elms.

Judge John H. Hurd thanked the jury and adjourned them after they had spent the night on each of the defendants.

The jury was locked up at 12:30 Wednesday morning after they had been deliberating 11 hours. The jury returned three times for instructions. The third of the three was adjourned to observers that a verdict would be reached under consideration.

"We would like to have one given on charged up," the foreman told the court. Assuming that the jury was a fellow endeavoring to see the case from an officer and that he was preparing plans, state, mental filed to disbelieve the car, how would the jury be instructed to determine the guilt or innocence, assuming that a shot which went wild did the damage? Judge Hurd replied that the jury could reasonably determine the occurrence was a mistake and that the accused was not guilty of the offense.

Misconduct Alleged Against Official in Superior Special Election Case

Superior — (AP) — Mayor Fred A. Baxter of Superior was charged with official misconduct on various counts. In an answer by William J. Sleeman to the mayor's summons and complaint instituting a suit to set aside a special election of last June, when the voters decided to change the city government, Sleeman's answer was intervening defendant was filed late Tuesday.

Sleeman seeks to have the mayor's action dismissed on the ground that the circuit court is without jurisdiction in the case and that when the court last July found 5,064 legal affirmative votes had been cast in a proposed increase in gasoline taxes, the assembly passed a bill from Wallace Ingalls, Racine, which would reestablish the convention system of nominating candidates for the primary.

There were but four senate votes against confirmation of McDonald's reappointment. They were cast by Senators Goodland, recognized Kohler leader in the upper house; Elmer S. Hall, Green Bay, Conservative; and the two Socialists, Duncan and Polakowski. The vote was 19 to 4.

The report of the senate highway committee on the Duncan gas tax referendum was accepted 13 to 15, after a half-hour debate. Duncan and other proponents of the proposal to put the gas tax increase before the voters urged this because they believed the people would defeat the measure, whereas cement dealers and other contractors hope to push the increase through the legislature.

LICENSING BILL
Assemblyman E. F. Rahl, Milwaukee, presented to the other house a bill for banking commission licensing of all retail merchants. He would have them pay a fee of $250 for investigation by the banking department to conduct a business and into the public convenience and necessity for their proposed store. Having refused a license, the merchant could appeal to a board consisting of the governor, secretary of state and attorney general, under the proposed law.

Assemblyman Ingalls bill legalizing nomination conventions would call the county of the chairman of each party committee. If the members earlier than usual, and strike out the clause calling for a meeting ten days after the September primary. Members of the committee would be elected in the convention, and precinct committee chairmen would be chosen at the April election, instead of at the June meeting.

September, then, before the first Saturday in June, the precinct committeemen would meet in county convention and elect delegates to the state convention, one delegate to each 1,000 party votes in the previous general election. The state convention would then be held not later than the third Tuesday in June.

INCOME TAX REDUCTION
An increase in the amount of deductions allowable on income taxes of individuals was provided in a bill by Senator Walter Polakowski, Milwaukee. Individuals would be allowed to deduct $10 instead of $8 from their taxes; heads of families would deduct $20 instead of $17.50 exemptions, or deductions for every child under 18 would be $4 instead of $3 and the same for other dependents not previously classified.

The first of the "park bills" that were stumbling blocks last session appeared Wednesday when Senator C. H. Johnson presented an appropriation bill for $200,000 to purchase a new park in the city of Racine. The park is now a summer estate, noted for the completeness of its buildings. The money, under the Caspersen bill would be raised by a surtax.

Senator Oscar Morris, Milwaukee, presented the aviation code which has been proposed by aeronautic engineers of the state and was introduced in the senate on Wednesday. It would provide a code in keeping with the federal aviation laws relative to use and management of airports and matches.

Legislators are to receive $25 a day for each day they are present and answer roll call with a 100-day session. The senate is to have a session introduced in the senate on Wednesday by Walter S. Goodland, Racine. Under the present law, legislators receive $20 a session, while Senator Goodland's resolution would increase the salary to a $250 maximum.

FIRE DRIVES FAMILY FROM HOME IN RACINE

Racine — (AP) — Five scantily clad persons were forced to flee for their lives at midnight when fire completely destroyed the home of Joe Resman at Waterford, according to reports received here Wednesday. The family, including three small children, was awakened by dense clouds of smoke. The father rushed out to rescue the children and carried them to a neighboring house. A defective fuse and overheated stove are thought to have caused the blaze. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

BLANCHE RING AND CHARLIE WINNINGER GO SEPARATE WAYS

Noted Wisconsin Actor Separated from His Wife, Broadway Report Says

Another footlight romance has foundered on the rock of artistic temperament, according to reports direct from Broadway, and one of the victims left high and dry is none other than Charles Winninger, one of the Wisconsin Winningers of his toric fame.

The comedian said no, there was no rift in the Winninger family affairs, and none loomed in the offing. But Blanche Ring, musical comedy star and the other half of the Winninger household, trotted out what appear to be facts in the case—with apologies, of course, to Charles.

"SHOULD NEVER WED"

Miss Ring and her husband's attorney drew up a separation agreement a week ago, she admitted. After sixteen years of wedded life she is convinced that stage people should never marry.

"Temperament—that is to say, the temperament of the actor—plays a great part in his or her life," Miss Ring explained.

"I think a genius like Charles Winninger should have a quiet home to which he might repair for quiet. And, too, he should have a home sort of wife. He is the type who needs a domesticated woman."

"As for me, I was undoubtedly not that home type. Bred in the theater, it is impossible for me to enter private life. If I had to give up the stage, life would hold little interest."

Their separation was agreed upon Jan. 1, Miss Ring revealed. They were married in November, 1912, in Boston, while Miss Ring starred in "The Wall Street Girl" and he was stage manager and playing minor roles.

Mr. Winninger is well remembered here as one of the five Winninger brothers, Frank, John, Adolph, Charles and Joseph. Frank, John and Adolph have visited here in the last few years and Joseph was manager of Appleton theatre for a number of years.

LEGISLATURE GETS BUCK MEASURE AGAIN

La Crosse Assemblyman Would Open Range to All Deer Over One Year Old

Madison—(AP)—The antlered head of the legislature's old menace, the one-buck law has again arisen in the assembly, to threaten the equanimity of the two houses, probably for many weeks. Each session some exponents of deer hunting attempt to remove the statutory provision that hunters may take but one buck, opening their range to all deer over a year old.

This year Assemblyman John Mulder, LaCrosse, presented the perennial bill with clauses attached cutting the hunting season from 10 to five days and advancing its opening from December 1 to November 26.

The soldiers' cash bonus would remain open until 1931 under a bill presented by R. J. Keller, Sauk City. The present law provided for closing of the bonus appropriation in 1927.

Assemblyman Prescott, Milwaukee, presented a bill establishing a closed season on all game in Milwaukee except to owners of land. They would be allowed to kill on their own preserves.

The biennial bill provided for muffers on motor boats was presented this year by Assemblyman Edwards, Sussex.

Peter Ebbe, Marshfield, presented a bill clarifying the laws relating to fire protection by town boards, under which they would be allowed to contract with other town's supervisors for joint use of fire equipment, purchase of this service from the neighboring town or purchase of equipment under the joint agreement.

A bill raising the legal minimum milk fat content of all forms of ice cream two per cent, in most cases from 12 to 14 per cent, was presented by T. A. Sullivan, Reedsville. Assemblyman Mulder put in a bill by which city councils could enact an ordinance under which the mayor could appoint the school board. He would not be held to appointments by wards, but could make the board an "at large" representation. The bill is simply an enable act, and does not call for compulsory change to this basis.

Last Of Notorious Gang Goes Down Fighting Cops

West Palm Beach—(AP)—When

Haywood Register fell mortally wounded Tuesday under a leaden hail from an ambuscade of officers, Sheriff "Bob" Baker finished a job he undertook four years ago when he set out to exterminate the notorious Ashley gang.

Register died with his boots on, in the best approved outlaw fashion, with his guns blazing defiance at the officers who attempted to return him to the state penitentiary and a life sentence for murder.

The last member of the east coast gang of desperadoes escaped last Dec. 5 from the state penitentiary, where he had been serving concurrent life sentences for murder.

Tuesday he walked into an ambush, arranged with the aid of a friend of Register whom the outlaw last Saturday held up and relieved of $2,000. The friend pleaded for the return of his money and Register agreed on the condition that he be furnished transportation to West End, in the Bahamas islands.

The victim conferred with Sheriff Baker and Tuesday when he went to keep his rendezvous, he was followed by Baker and his deputies. Baker, hidden behind a bush, called on Register to "throw up your hands."

Instead Register whirled, a blazing pistol in each hand. He emptied three pistols at the five officers and was attempting to draw a knife when four bullets from the posse's pistols took effect.

The Ashley gang terrorized the lower east coast for many years, committing highway robberies and holding up banks, until four years ago, when Sheriff Baker and his deputies surprised the outlaws at Sebastian bridge near here. In the gun battle that ensued four of the gang were killed and several captured.

AIRWAY OFFICIAL TO BE IN CITY WEDNESDAY

Charles (Speed) Holman, manager of the Northwest Airways, Inc., which has the Fox river valley air mail contract, was expected in Appleton Wednesday for a conference with postal officials and representatives of the North American Airways company, whose field on the Menasha-rd is being used to land the air mail for Appleton, Neenah and Menasha. Mr. Holman, who sent word to F. F. Wetzel, acting postmaster, expects to discuss the matter of keeping the runways in condition so the planes can make regular landings here.

MARIONETTES TO APPEAR AT CHAPEL

Violinist and Harpist Will Be Featured at Thursday Programs

"The Magical Land of Oz," and "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" will be presented by the Jean Gros Marionettes in their two appearances at Lawrence Memorial chapel Thursday afternoon and evening. Children are urged to attend the "Magical Land of Oz" to be given in the afternoon, and unless parents find it necessary to accompany the children in the afternoon adults will find the Huckleberry Finn production more adapted to mature interest.

Both performances will be featured the appearance of Linnea Roberts, violinist, and Geraldine Vance, harpist. Both artists are players of unusual talent, and through their long association with the Marionettes are able to accomplish effects with the figures that would not be possible otherwise.

In the afternoon performance the audience will have the opportunity to witness the famous 14-piece Oz orchestra, an intricate demonstration of the Marionette acting.

The French Marionettes are being brought to Appleton under the auspices of the Appleton Womans club.

ORGANIZE FOUR CLUBS AT PIONEER DINNER

Forty youngsters of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. attended a Pioneer "round up" dinner party in the association building at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. Four Pioneer clubs were organized, and Clark Carnes, Howard Reetz, Allen Sager and Paul Millen were selected to lead the groups.

W. E. Smith of the boys' work committee was the principal speaker of the evening, and told the boys about the merits of the "four square" boy. Other speakers on were C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary, and Harry Hanson of Lawrence college, assistant boys' secretary.

An inter-Pioneer club basketball tournament is to be planned this week, and games are to be scheduled for 1 o'clock Saturday afternoons, according to Mr. Bailey. Other inter-club competitive games are to be arranged. Clubs will meet separately once a week.

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS COVER ENTIRE ROUTES

Rural mail carriers at the Appleton post office succeeded in delivering all of their mail Tuesday although in some instances patrons on side roads were forced to walk to the main highways because the side roads are not open. The carriers said that Wednesday or Thursday they expected the county plows would have opened enough of the roads so the routes could be covered entirely. Some trouble is experienced by the carriers who are using sleighs on concrete roads where the snow has been taken off down to the pavement. In some places there isn't sufficient room on the side for the sleigh and horses pull the sleighs over the bare concrete.

FIND CAR BURIED UNDER SNOWDRIFTS ON HIGHWAY 76

An automobile completely buried in snow drifts which closed Highway 76, about three miles southeast of Greenville since last Friday, was recovered Monday morning when county highway employees opened the road.

A Milwaukee woman, driving a big sedan, was obliged to abandon the car Friday night and seek refuge in a farmhouse when the snow blocked her road. Next morning when she went for her car it had disappeared and she wasn't sure of the exact spot she had left it in the highway and a search failed to reveal it.

Monday morning, when the county plows arrived, a crew of men was sent on a head-to-shovel so the plows wouldn't damage the car and the buried machine was found and shoveled out so the county trucks could proceed.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK FOR 1929 IS GOOD, BULLETIN BELIEVES

Prosperous Conditions Expected to Continue for at Least Six Months

Madison—(AP)—The outlook for 1929 business is generally satisfactory, according to a review published in the January number of the Wisconsin Retail Bulletin, university monthly publication, just issued.

The prevailing opinion of leading business forecasters, the bulletin says, is that prosperous conditions may be expected through the first six months of 1929. After that period it is early to make predictions. Business is being conducted along conservative lines, commodity prices are not inflated, and there still is available a considerable amount of unused credit. Money rates tightened during 1928, and it is possible that high interest rates may prevent business in 1929 reaching the levels of last year, according to the publication.

A slight increase in the volume of retail trade in southern Wisconsin is probable, the bulletin predicts, while there may be a slight falling off of business in the northern part of the state.

Fewer business failures occurred in Wisconsin last year, for the figures are 403 for 1928 as against 417 in 1927.

Milk prices, according to the bulletin, were highest in 1928 than in any previous year since 1920, and the decline in Wisconsin farm land values was the smallest since 1920. The number of Wisconsin farms voluntarily sold and traded in 1928 decreased to 18.2 farms a thousand, and the number of forced sales dropped to 22.7 farms a thousand.

Industrial employment in Wisconsin was 64 per cent, less for 1928 than 1927, but from May to November of 1928 employment conditions were better than for that period of 1927.

Wisconsin production of potatoes was up 33 per cent, in 1928 above 1927, tobacco 48 per cent, and canning peas 27 per cent. For the United States as a whole the increase in these crops were 15.13, and 23 per cent.

PAT BARNES ASKED TO ENTERTAIN VETS

Radio Artist Appearing Here Will Be on Air Friday Night Over WGN

Appleton persons looking forward to the coming of Pat Barnes, radio artist and comedian at station WGN, probably will hear him talk over the air with Appleton people Friday evening about 10:30 when he answers a request of Oney Johnson post of the legion to dedicate a part of his evening's program to veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars.

The request that part of Friday evening's program be dedicated to war veterans was made of Mr. Barnes Monday in a letter from Harvey Pribe, a past commander of the local post who is chairman of the committee arranging to bring Mr. Barnes here for a program at Lawrence Memorial chapel next Monday evening.

Barnes has appeared on Appleton stages several times, usually in company with Al Carney, another well known radio artist. This time he will bring with him a new accompanist, Frank Chiddix, considered one of the best accompanists in radio work.

Plans for the entire evening's program have not yet been completed but Mr. Barnes will take up more than half the two hours of entertainment being planned. Special numbers featuring Appleton musical artists are planned for the remainder of the program.

Tickets for the concert now are on sale by legion members. The downtown ticket center is Sylvester-Nielsen store on E. College-ave.

TEACHER TO APPEAL FOR HER CERTIFICATE

Madison—(AP)—At Washburn court house, Washburn, on Feb. 1, Mrs. Elsie Miller will appeal to John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction to save her teacher's certificate.

Mrs. Minnie Hartley Miller, county superintendent of schools, voided the other Mrs. Miller's certificate, on grounds that she maintained lax discipline in her school, used antiquated teaching methods and was lacking in training sufficient to teach.

Under the law the teaching Mrs. Miller has another chance to keep

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take rightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 11c. 25c. 50c.

SARGON 'TOWER OF STRENGTH TO HIM

Attack of Flu Left Galger In Dreadfully Weakened And Rundown Condition.

"I wouldn't have believed any medicine in the world would do for me what Sargon did. It overcame my troubles, increased my weight five pounds and gave me a new lease on life. My friends are all telling me how much better I look."

"Some time ago I had a bad attack of Flu that left me in a very weakened and rundown condition. I lost strength and my energy was at a low ebb. My liver was out of order, and I was bilious and nervous. My appetite left me, and I couldn't digest the little I ate. I never enjoyed a good night's sleep. I tried most every medicine I heard of, but nothing did me any lasting good.

"My son had obtained wonderful results from Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills, so I decided to try the treatment. I knew after the first few doses I had found the medicine I needed. It seemed to take hold at once."

"I now have a fine appetite, eat anything I want and no longer have indigestion or bilious spells. My sleep is sound and restful. Sargon has proved a tower of strength to me and I'm like a different man."

"I took Sargon Soft Mass Pills along with Sargon, and they are different from anything of the kind I ever took. They overcame my constipation in an easy and natural manner without causing the least gripe or nausea. I will never be without them."

"The Sargon treatment seemed to fit my case exactly. It's just wonderful."

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store.

$621 DEPOSITED BY 2,949 PUPILS

84 Per Cent of Public School Students Bank During Thrift Period

Eighty-four per cent of the pupils in the public schools banked at the weekly Thrift period last week, 2,949 pupils depositing $621.64. The balance on deposit now is $33,150.34, and interest credit for the week was $20.09. Twenty-four pupils withdrew $202.62 during the week. The Columbus school was the only one to bank 100 per cent, through McKinley lost out by only one point.

The amounts banked at the various schools was: First Ward, 345 depositors, $103.78; Franklin, 242, $48.92; Washington, 294, $49.14; Richmond, 74, $5.48; Jefferson, 235, $45.45; Columbus, 214, $52.69; McKinley, 82, $14.56; Fourth Ward, 177, $24.98; Lincoln, 129, $26.82; Roosevelt, 399, $86.65; Wilson, $48.56; and Appleton high school, 489, $114.60.

Picture Puzzles Teach Numerals To Beginners

They used to give us little pegs, pieces of corn and peas to learn our numbers on. Now first graders learn their numerals by the picture puzzle process, or in more scholarly terms, the Silent Vocabulary method.

They call it "seat work," but if one is to judge by the facial expressions on most of the children—except, of course, those who have been trying to find the right word for the right picture for at least 15 minutes—it seems to be more like seat play.

It's done this way, at least so it is at St. Mary school. Each child is given a page of pictures with the name of the article printed below. Another part of his equipment is a picture card with the printed word omitted. The last part of the puzzle is a hedge-podge of discs with printed words, each one of which fits some picture on the second card. The problem is to fit the right disc into the right hole beneath each picture—and you can rest assured that by the time the first grade child has brought the right picture and the right word together he knows both the picture and printed word, united or separated—and never forgets both of them at the same time.

CAN CHARGE COUNTY FOR INSULIN COST

Madison—(AP)—A daily supply of insulin may be supplied to a sufferer of diabetes at the expense of the county as part of its duty toward the poor, the attorney general has informed the state board of health.

The question arose over the case of a diabetes sufferer who has sufficient money to support himself, but cannot afford to pay from $6 to $12 for a daily insulin ration. This is the monthly expense. The attorney general held that the duty imposed upon counties to relieve and support poor and indigent persons applies not only to food and clothing, but to medical attention as well.

WORK SITUATION IN CITY BETTER

Majority of Men Have Found Employment in Mills and Factories

The employment situation in Appleton is improving and more men have been able to secure positions in mills and other industrial plants for the winter months, according to John Goodrick, employment secretary of the Y. M. C. A. One or two inquiries for work are received daily at the employment desk according to Mr. Goodrick. Most of the men asking for work, however, are of the transient group, moving from town to town.

In the fall the situation was more precarious and inquiries were being received at the desk at the rate of six and eight daily, according to Mr. Goodrick. Most of these men have been placed on jobs here and at Kimberly, Neenah and Menasha. Men who now are out of work haven't a special trade, and are willing to do most any kind of labor, Mr. Goodrick says. Several of them have been employed by the street department and are working with snow removers.

Moscow—(AP)—Russian air routes increased 88 per cent during the past year. The total is now 11,971 kilometres. The number of passengers transported during the year was 8,655, an increase of 22 per cent. There were no casualties on any of the air lines.

SPORTS NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA SOCIETY

Y. W. C. A. FORMED BY MERGING CLUBS OF MENASHA, NEENAH

Elect Directors and Determine on Program of Meetings

Neenah—The organization meeting of the Young Women's Christian association of Neenah and Menasha was held Tuesday evening at the Young Women's club rooms on E. Doty-ave. The attendance was large and much interest was shown in the merging of the two clubs into the International association. Mrs. Neal Spoor, president of the Neenah young women's club, conducted the first part of the program after which Miss Edna Kittenington of Chicago, national secretary, conducted the organization part of the work, giving a short talk on what it will mean to the twin cities and the young women by being affiliated with the national association. The Menasha Glee club and Miss Madeline Tryell, furnished musical numbers during the evening.

During the business meeting, a board of directors, composed of Mrs. H. K. Babcock, Miss Helen Babcock, Mrs. M. E. Barnett, Mrs. J. N. Bergstrom, Mrs. John Best, Mrs. N. E. Bergstrom, Mrs. John Chapman, Miss Mabelle Gear, Mrs. J. P. Gillingham, Mrs. S. D. Greenwood, Miss Clara Bloom, Miss Jennie Harris, Mrs. R. V. Luther, Mrs. W. H. Miner, Mrs. I. E. Not so many horses in several years have been standing in the barns for years and had nothing to do other than a little work about the farm proper. As many as 40 teams were hitched along lower Main-st Tuesday, all owned by farmers who had come to town in this manner rather than run chances of getting stuck in the deep snow.

for a Stevens Point boy killed in a celebration of that city's basketball championship a few years ago.

The bill would appropriate $5000 to Felix Kropfowski, father of the boy, who was killed when a shell belonging to the national guard there exploded. The guard was helping in the celebration of the 1925 homecoming of the victorious Stevens Point high school basketball team. The national guard members were protected by the guard and the industrial commission, but the boy who was not a member could not be read except by appropriation from the legislature. This was made, but killed by the governor. The industrial commission is again expected to endorse the measure.

FARMERS WILL BE TAUGHT VALUE OF ELECTRIC POWER

University of Wisconsin Seeks to Spread Use of Electricity

Madison—(P)—How best to help Wisconsin farmers apply electricity to their work is the educational program that is being carried on by the University of Wisconsin under Prof. F. W. Duffee, secretary of the Wisconsin committee on the application of electricity to agriculture and J. P. Schaefer, project leader.

The Wisconsin committee was formed in 1924 and since then the organization through the university and electric companies of the state have successfully developed the study of rural electrification.

In the course of last summer Prof. Duffee devoted part of his time in the farming districts to demonstrate how best to adapt electrical appliances.

Mr. Schaefer as project leader devoted the entire summer to the work. Among various electrical appliances that were demonstrated are the engine cutter and a small feed grinder both of which are for the average farms.

Besides the demonstration work, bulletins are issued on electrical research data that are collected from Electro-Test farms and three-day class demonstrations.

Of special interest to rural users of electricity, Prof. Duffee says, is information on rates, cost of equipment operation and, in particular, information on feed grinding, silo filling and individual light plants. These studies, which are being carried on in cooperation with electric utilities and manufacturers, have been confined largely for the last two years to a few of these more important problems.

NAME TEST FARMS

In order to secure data from a wider range of conditions throughout the state, 19 electric test farms have been established in addition to five farms on the Ripon experimental line. The farms serve as demonstration centers to train utility men in the proper use and application of electrically-operated equipment.

Energy and operating records are being obtained on the major uses of electricity on these farms, which also serve as a proving ground for newly developed equipment and practices. The educational program as it is being maintained now saves farmers a large percentage on their earnings that would otherwise be expended wastefully, Prof. Duffee points out.

"We feel that all our research work, and all the compilation of data isn't worth two cents locked up in our files," Prof. Duffee says. "What we aim to do is help the farmer see how electricity will help him with his work, and it is our paramount interest to educate him in the use of applying it."

This year, instead of conducting a three-day class session, one-day classes will be held. A special class in the application of electricity to water supply will be conducted.

THERESA STUDENTS MAKE HONOR ROLL

15 Receive High Honors for Record in Spite of Illness and Weather

Despite the epidemic of influenza, cold weather, and all the impediments school children have had to thwart perfect attendance, 15 pupils at St. Theresa's school made the honor roll for the last six weeks' period of the first semester. Requests for this recognition are perfect attendance and a record of B in all work and deportment.

The honored are Donald Alferi, Mary Jane Butler, Gladys Roesch, Melvin Schneider, Margaret Voss, Clement Rankin, Margaret Williams, Jeanette Wood, Clayton Kille, Eugene Welland, Gladys Heinritz, James Kocha, Helen Wiegand, Mary Lou Van Wyk, and Lester Van Gilder. The list includes at least one representative from each of the eight grades in the school.

Because the combined forces of illness and bad weather affected so many of the grades, an honorable mention list has been compiled for the last period. This list includes all persons with an average of 90 or above. Those included in this group are Anna Mae Roemer, Viola Sain, Marie Schum, Melvin Wolfgram, Marie Unmuth, Harry Baumann, Theodore Berg, Howard Hansen, Sylvester Parker, Stewart Pleassar, Gordon Zuehke, Mildred Fisher, Roman Dert, Robert Bosser Faltzer, Isabelle Gruesbach, Robert Kessler.

Fighting Snow On Outagamie-Co Roads

Some idea of the kind of job it is to open Outagamie co. highways after the snowstorm of last week may be gained from these pictures showing cuts from six to nine feet deep. The picture at the right shows the top of a telephone pole sticking out of the drifts. This picture was made on Highway 47, about three miles north of Appleton shortly after the snow plow went through. The depression at the left shows where the snow plow attacked the drifts but was unable to get through and finally was forced to find a new path further to the right. The middle picture is another scene on the Mackville road and the bottom picture shows the top of a car, indicated by the arrow, passing thru the drifts.

A few miles further north the drifts are so deep that an automobile passing thru the cuts is entirely hidden.

The picture at the bottom (right) shows two tractors attached to one plow pushing aside the huge drifts on the Mackville rd. The picture shows the snow piled up at least ten feet, as high as the wings on the plow. Lighter truck plows follow the tractors to cut the snow down to the pavement.

CLUBS WILL INFORM WOMEN OF LEGISLATION

Madison—(P)—Women of the state are to be kept informed of legislation of interest to them through the Wisconsin federation of women's club. Members of the local legislative committee of the organization will convey such information by letter to the various districts.

Mrs. J. A. Strathearn, Manitowish, chairman of the federation's legislative committee, met last week in Madison with members of the state committee to perfect plans for keeping the women in touch with what the legislature is doing.

Women throughout the state are urged by the federation to study all measures proposed by the law makers, particularly any relating to dowry and the distribution of estates, as well as other measures endorsed by the federation.

"COMPLETELY MOTORIZED"

... thanks to the USED CAR

"I HAVE a wife, a daughter and a son," a business man writes, "and each of us needed a car. To buy four new cars was out of the question for me, but thanks to the present-day bargains in used cars, my family has been completely motorized at surprisingly small expense."

A rather unusual family, but the idea is not new. Very many American families in all circumstances have found in the used car an economical means of enjoying the convenience of two- and three-car ownership. For a used car is unused transportation which may be enjoyed by the next owner at an attractive price.

Used cars are opportunities

A good automobile is built to stand years of use. It will provide many thousands of miles of transportation. But only occasionally are all its years and all its mileage used up by one owner.

The cars which General Motors dealers are taking in trade offer great opportunities to buy unused transportation at low cost. The convenience of the GMAC Plan of Payment is available.

POVERTY IN AMERICA
There is relatively in poverty, too. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in December wrote a letter to the editor of the Western Mail and South Wales News, which attracted considerable attention in England, where the paper is published. In the letter he spoke of the prevalent impression in Europe that all Americans are rich.
"It is true," he wrote, "that the American worker has a standard of living which is higher than the worker of any other country knows. It is true that the standard of American living is higher than any hitherto known. It is true that the real wage of the American worker is twice as high as that of the worker of Paris and more than four times as high as that of the worker of Brussels, Rome and Madrid.
"I admit that the American worker is better off than the worker of any other country in the world. But the American worker is not dwelling in Utopia. No country can be considered Utopian when 86 per cent of its people are poor.

"It may be that we are on the way to solving the problem of poverty in America. But we can hardly claim we have solved it so long as many Americans are living under depressing conditions. The brotherhood of poverty is world-wide; we share it with you." It is America's own fault if the rest of the world has too rosy an impression of our citizens' wealth. The bragging, boastful American abroad helps to foster that impression and thereby does considerable harm to mutual goodwill and sympathetic understanding.

FEMALE CHIVALRY
Mme. Kovach of Budapest, wife of a rich manufacturer, accused Mlle. Targo, a music teacher, of alienating her husband's affections. The latter's honor was touched. The lie was passed. And did the two ladies get into an unseemly scrap?
They did not. They met at sunrise the next morning in the snow, in a neighboring park, to fight a duel. The only reason they didn't go through with it was that the police butted in before the fair duellists could exchange thrusts, and sent them home. That was unpardonable rudeness, of course. Also, perhaps a strategic blunder. The ladies might have satisfied their honor mutually, as gentlemen do in this traditional mode, and then they would have embraced, and everything would have been lovely. Now they may have to pull hair, or fight it out in the divorce court.

The most intriguing thing about the incident, though, is its exemplification of equal rights and standards. Sex equality is always breaking out in some new form. Men have fought thousands of sword duels for women. When have women before fought such duels for men?

SPANISH TRAFFIC CONTROL
Even pedestrians in this country will hardly approve of the recent ukase of Dictator Primo de Rivera of Spain in regard to motorists who bump walkers. He has decreed that any motorist who hits a pedestrian must go to prison for six years. If a pedestrian is fatally injured by an automobile the motorist must go to prison for twelve years. These penalties are to be imposed even when the motorist is guiltless of careless or bad driving.
It is obviously an unfair ruling so long as it may do pedestrians more good by making them cocky than it does motorists. It is a good idea to make them cocky, but it is not a good idea to make them cocky by giving them more highway privileges, and not take normal precautions. Consequently get them out of the road.

It is probably not while it is in force, however, that it is something of a mess, and residents in houses or workers in stores or office buildings are annoyed by the constant tooting and honking of cautious drivers. Traffic conditions are not perfect here, but we prefer them to those that must exist in the big cities of Spain.

APOSTLE OF INEVITABLE
In an article in the current Nation, Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister of England, describes "The apostle of the inevitable." He says this type of mind "has an alluring air of detachment, and yet of stoical submission to the decrees of Providence. To-day it murmurs as in a drowsy trance that great economic empires have always clashed and fought, that the capitalist competition has always brought armaments competition, and that that in turn has always brought war. Therefore all that the United States and ourselves (Great Britain) can do is to go on temporarily with our struggle for markets and rivalry for possession of furniture and old masters, and wait for the inevitable clash and crash decreed since the beginning of the world."

MacDonald himself is not an apostle of the inevitable. "Given governments which have minds to form rational policies and a public opinion which represents an active will and is not merely drifting upon the currents, war is no more inevitable than the smallpox, and the causes of war are just as controllable as insanitary conditions." The immediate action that he advocates is to have each nation appoint five or six of its outstanding public men, "representative of the whole nation, to meet and drag from the obscure corners of sulky suspicion the things which make difficulties between us. Let us know them. Mayhap fresh air would clean our minds of them."

Is it not worth trying?

A NEW "EINSTEIN" THEORY
An amateur scientist who has been doing some heavy thinking on his own account comes forward with an idea which he says may explain Dr. Einstein's latest outbreak, and antedates it. "Father, what is gravitation?" asked his young son at the table one evening. Whereupon father, heavily cerebrating as aforesaid for a couple of days, produced the following theory.
Atoms of matter, according to the now accepted view, are electrical, being made up of equal numbers of positive and negative particles of electricity. Positive and negative, as is well known, attract each other. This binding force holds together the protons and electrons composing every atom, in the likeness of a planetary system.

So far there is general agreement. Here is where the new idea starts. What is gravitation? Simplest thing in the world. Every positive particle of electricity in any atom, besides attracting and holding a negative particle in the same atom, is reaching beyond its little planetary system and attracting also every other negative particle in the universe. Likewise every negative particle in the same atom is reaching beyond and attracting every other positive particle in the universe.

This, says the anonymous Newton, is the way all matter attracts all other matter. It is an overplus of electric attraction, working criss-cross from atom to atom, that holds the universe together. Father is probably wrong, of course, but it satisfies son, better maybe than Einstein could.

WORLD COURT REVISION
A committee of jurists has been appointed by the League of Nations to study the "statutes" by which the world court was established, with a view to revising them. Elihu Root, the distinguished American who bore a leading part in organizing the Court, has accepted membership on the committee. The idea, suggested by France, is that the set-up of the court may be changed to meet senatorial objections and facilitate American adherence.

It may be possible to make such alterations without destroying the usefulness of the court. And if it is possible, Mr. Root presumably will see that it is done. There are American friends of the court, however, who will say the only way to get this country into it is to revise the United States Senate.

The fastest liners in the world at present are the Mauretania (23 1-2 knots) and Majestic (25), both British ships; then come the France (24), a French vessel, and an American, the Leviathan (24).
Constructed at a cost of $100,000, the new municipal garage at Windsor, England, will hold 141 autos.
A new German cruiser is to be constructed at Kiel and is to be electrically welded, no rivets being used in any part of the ship.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Feb. 3, 1904

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Buchner entertained at dinner the previous evening. Pit and fitch were played.
A marriage license had been issued to George Timmers and Lottie Shilleox, both of Kaukauna. Miss Etta Kamps had gone to Milwaukee where she was to visit friends for several days. Miss Josephine Patten, who graduated from the Oshkosh normal school this previous Friday, had returned to her home in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Brown entertained a group of friends at a masquerade party at their home on North Division-st the previous evening.
The Butler Concert company of Chicago was to present a concert that night at the Congressional church.

TEN YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Jan. 29, 1919

The secret treaties affected by the Allies before America entered the war, which were generally accepted as constituting the most serious menace to a democratic and permanent peace, were invalid. They were swept away by acceptance of the armistice terms, including President Wilson's fourteen points, his speech of Jan. 8, and subsequent speeches. They were doubly nullified when the Allies agreed to the principle of the League of Nations.
Miss Norma Schroeder was surprised the previous evening at her home on Packard-st, in honor of her fourteenth birthday anniversary. Mrs. and Mrs. Henry L. Melz, Morrison-st, that day announced the engagement of their daughter, Clara, to Paul Doering, instructor at Zion Lutheran school.
Theodore Bellings was a Milwaukee visitor the previous day.
Miss Agnes Bruns attended the automotive show at Milwaukee the previous Monday and Tuesday.

Births in England and Wales during 1927 numbered 664,124, giving a birthrate of 15.6, the lowest on record.

For the first time in 28 years the Egyptian gallery in the British Museum has been thoroughly refurnished.

Personal Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered. All mail written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE KING AND TEX RICHARD
It is all very well for the reporters to keep the King's resistance away, erasing bewilderingly, up today and down tomorrow. It is quite natural that the news from the bedside of Mr. Richard should likewise elevate or depress the impressario's "resistance."

Newspaper people use the term figuratively, and by it they imply that the sick man is confident or resigned, as the case may be. It is all wrong and absolutely unjustifiable for health authorities or physicians to dwell on "resistance" in any sense whatever. There is no such thing as "resistance," in respect to any known disease. There is such a condition or state as immunity against a given disease, but immunity, to scientific mind, is very different from the idea or fancy conveyed by the term "resistance."

"Resistance" necessarily implies antagonism, opposition or capacity to withstand or endure. Mr. Richard assured Jack Dempsey that he intended to "win this fight." It is pleasant to think that the patient's pluck, courage, grit or determination has something to do with its outcome, but we have no scientific reason to believe it has. Immunity implies nothing more than a soil in which the seed does not readily take root and grow.

Immunity, so far as we know, is always a relative state, never absolute. Even a goat may have tuberculosis. It is not inconceivable, though rare in practice, that a person only recently vaccinated and well vaccinated may nevertheless catch smallpox if exposed to an overwhelming infection with virulent virus. One who has had measles may have it a second time. Immunity is only a relative state.

Again, so far as we know, immunity does not waver or vary widely in degree from hour to hour or from day to day. There is no scientific evidence, no animal or human experiment, to warrant the notion too commonly propagated by half-baked authorities that loss of sleep, chilling, fatigue, hunger or other unpleasant or disagreeable experience robs an individual of any part of the immunity he may have against any known disease. This is no idle or extravagant assertion. I am trying to state the fact clearly and plainly, and I challenge anyone to bring forward evidence to contradict what I have said, if there is any evidence available.

The student of this important question of hygiene or health should notice this peculiarity: The doctors or health authorities who give out "rules" or advice concerning the prevention of what they call "colds" or influenza or pneumonia are very fond of speaking of "resistance" or "flowered resistance," not of immunity; but they seldom or never use this trick term "resistance" when speaking of diphtheria, scarlet fever or typhoid; you see we know something about immunity in respect to these latter diseases, and when we know what we're talking about it is natural to say immunity, not "resistance."

I suppose it is because we know practically nothing about immunity to "flu" pneumonia or what the old guard calls "common colds," that every health expert feels free to speculate about the matter and air his fancies or perhaps an idea or two that will please customers.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
INSULIN FOR SLIMY FOLK
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
I read in your column that a few doses of insulin along with meals would help to put on weight when a person is terribly thin. Please tell me where I can get the insulin, how much to take, etc.—(G. E. R.)

ANS.—In the article I said or tried to say that insulin must be administered by hypodermic injection and only a physician can administer it. I am unable to tell you which physician in your vicinity would administer insulin for that purpose. It is a new method of idea and physicians are loath to adopt new ideas, as a rule.

CANNED FOOD
Why is it necessary to open canned vegetables and allow them to stand several minutes before using? I know it is something about bringing back the vitamins. I am giving a lesson in the Home Bureau on the cooking of vegetables and would like this information before Feb. 8.

ANS.—It is not necessary to allow any kind of canned food to stand after opening the can. Your question gives a new angle to the old superstition that it is unsafe to allow canned food to stand in the can after opening. It is as safe to keep the food in the open can as it is in any other container. Any vitamins lost or destroyed by the canning process or by storage or by cooking, are lost for keeps and cannot be brought back or revived.

THE IRON AND TEA CLUB
I noticed a receipt for half a dozen iron sulphate (copperas), one-half spoonful, in a pint of black tea. Please state the size of the spoon.

(G. H.)

ANS.—A spoonful always means a teaspoon. If it is any other size of spoon that is specified, The lady who asked about this simple means of darkening graying hair said to put in the pint of black tea a piece of copperas (iron sulphate) the size of a kernel of corn. She did not give further directions. I assume she meant that the lotion should be brushed or combed into the hair more or less every day. All I can tell you about the method is that it is absolutely harmless, and several readers have reported that they find it quite satisfactory. Of course this dyes the gray hair black or nearly so.

MAL DE MER AND A BAD HABIT
Kindly send me your remedy for seasickness. I am bothered a great deal with constipation. Would that have anything to do with my getting seasick? I can ride in an auto, particularly where there are many curves, without getting seasick.

ANS.—Repeat question and enclose stamped addressed envelope. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

Adventures In The Library
By Arnold Mulder
SPEAKING OF CLOTHES
Carlyle, you remember, devoted a whole book to the philosophy of clothes. In "Sartor Resartus" he hammered away at that theme from the first page to the last and he got many surprising effects out of it.
A writer of our own day who is rather snippy about Carlyle but who does not begin to carry the interest that the dour Scotchman did, ponderous though the latter was, has once more ventured to devote a whole book to clothes. O more accurately speaking, to lack of them or the desirability of the lack of them. For his title is "The Future of Nakedness." The man who has had the temerity to launch out on this subject is John Langdon-Davies, the author of a rather much discussed book last year, "A Short History of Women."
Briefly stated Langdon-Davies' amazing thesis is that men and women should abolish all clothes—not merely the men and women in tropical countries but in all climates. There is a good deal of spoofing in the book and it is never necessary or safe to take the writer too seriously, but he gives his reader quite clearly by making children disrobe their clothes are well known. Langdon-Davies argues that if freedom from clothes can make sick children well it can make naked children and grownups still more healthy.
From this starting point he launches out on a rather elaborate argument about the origin of clothes. He does not put any stock in the first leaf theory and he holds that clothes, instead of being an instrument making for modesty and chastity, are exactly the reverse, that they are sex lures and are consciously and unconsciously used for that purpose.
There is much to be said for his argument and the book also is often amusing. It suffers from the fact that it always gives the impression of being an argument for the sake of the argument. For even if all of his conclusions are granted, what of it? He does not seriously believe that he or anyone else can argue mankind into discarding their clothes, even if it were desirable. Also, he has left out of consideration one very important factor. Clothes may destroy health and they may be sex lures, but they are a very important topic of conversation and a genuine interest in life. What would millions of men and women talk about if not about clothes, the styles, the ducky hats and the lovely gowns and the beautiful coats? Take this interest out of the lives of men and women and a certain class and you might almost as well take their lives away. They would have hardly an interest left.
That isn't all. Take away clothes and you have to reorganize the whole economic structure on which the civilization of today is built. Recently during the Christmas holidays while King George was lying at the point of death in Buckingham palace English trade was almost paralyzed because of the fact that if the king should die the royal family would go into mourning and the rest of the nation would have to follow suit. That meant that the merchants would be left with large stocks of colored goods on their hands. Much of the anxiety about the king had an economic basis.
If there was possible because of the mere illness of a king, what would happen to business if men and women were to abolish clothes? Clothes form one of the chief items of commerce and if they should be abolished modern business would collapse.
Not that the book need make anyone worry about it. It is a little hard to see why the book was written except for entertainment, and it is hardly funny enough for that.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE

THIS HAS HAPPENED
ASHTORETH ASHE, who has just returned from a trip to the West Indies, is secretly engaged to HOLLIS HART, a millionaire, much older than herself. Ashtoreth is 23, a poor young stenographer and beautiful as a picture.

Her mother, MAIZIE, meets her at the station and they go together to their flat. Maizie is almost pitifully happy. But Ashtoreth's homecoming has been spoiled by two unpleasant features. First—MONTY ENGLISH, an ex-convict, has wired that he is flying over from New York to see her. Ashtoreth does not want at all to see him. Besides, she is in mortal terror lest he and Hollis Hart made the flight on the same ship. It would be such an awkward way for them to meet—and no telling what would happen next.

The other bad news is the presence of SADIE MORTON in the flat. Sadie is a common little creature, a friend of poorer days. She has already tried to blackmail Hollis Hart and now she threatens to hold him up again. She has been to a well-known lawyer of doubtful reputation. And Ashtoreth is panicky-stricken.

Following dinner, Sadie goes out to mail a letter and Ashtoreth is having a little heart-to-heart talk with her mother, when they hear someone in the hall. Maizie thinks it is Monty, and goes to the kitchen to light up under the coffee. It proves, however, to be Sadie; returning from the mail box.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXVII

"Oh—Sadie. We thought you were Monty."

Ashtoreth called to her mother. "Never mind the coffee, Mums. It's my Sadie."

"Maizie came in from the kitchen and settled herself comfortably on the big divan."

"My goodness," she observed, glancing from one girl to the other. "You two certainly are different. I don't know as I ever saw two girls so different."

Sadie flipped her short skirts pertly.

"I ain't a red hot mommer any more," she chattered. "Just a sweet young thing, tryin' to get along. Not a day over 15 and butler wouldn't meet in my mouth."

She was wearing a suspender skirt of red and blue, pleated smartly. Her blouse had a broad childish collar, with a blue silk tie. She wore a scarlet beret and striped wool socks over her nude silk stockings.

Ashtoreth was in brown and her skirt was five inches longer than Sadie's.

"Ash, now," pronounced Sadie, "looks like I'd like to look. But God didn't have no clothes horse in mind when he gave me these short little legs."

She sat beside Maizie and stuck them out derisively.

"Not so hot," she lamented. "Say Ash, if I had a couple stems like yours! There's no telling how far a good pair of legs will take a girl. Say, dearie, what makes you wear your skirts so long?"

Maizie looked slightly scandalized. "If you'd think less about your legs, Sadie," she began.

"Oh, all right. All right. I was only trying to give your daughter a compliment, Mrs. Ashe."

Sadie got up restlessly and wandered over to the radio.

"What do you say if we pluck a band out of the air, to welcome Little Sweetheart home?"

She twisted the dial, looking over her shoulder at Ashtoreth.

"You give me a pain in the neck, Ash—that's what you do. Here's your mother been thinking of nothin' but you ever since you been away. Workin' her fingers off, while you were playin' the grand lady. Slavin' all day, cleanin' the place and cooking. And she don't get so much as a pleasant look out of you. Anybody'd think you was at a wake—that's what they'd think. What's the matter with you, anyway?"

Maizie looked helplessly at her daughter.

"There's something on your mind, ain't there, honey?"

"You're darn tootin', there's something on her mind," contributed Sadie, "and it ain't none of my business or anything like that. But I hate to see your mother gettin' the cold water treatment. Ash, after all she's done for you."

Ashtoreth crossed the room swiftly, and flung herself in Maizie's lap. "I'm wonderin' about Monty," she lied.

"And all she while she was thinking, of course, of Hollis."

"Sadie's an old crab, Mums. She just likes to hear herself talk."

It's as much as your life's worth, flyin' in them things."

Ashtoreth sprang to her feet. "Where, Sadie?"

"Oh, my God Ash! I never thought about Monty."

Sadie straightened. Her eyes were wide and frightened.

"I didn't get it all. Somewhere in Connecticut, I think he said. Flyin' over from New York. Oh, wouldn't it be awful, Ash?"

Maizie thumbed the telephone directory.

"Call the News," she commanded. "Here's the number—You do it, Ash—ask for the city desk."

But Ashtoreth shook her head.

"Here—I will," Sadie darted into the hall, with Maizie at her heels.

"Hubbard 6000 hurry up, operator!... Gee, Mrs. Ashe, I guess she's crazy about Monty. Did you see how pale she got?... No, operator... six thousand... It can't be busy—it's a switchboard... Maybe you'd better go in and see if she's all right, Mrs. Ashe... Well, they would if you'd ring them. Listen, operator, that's a newspaper office and of course they'll answer."

"Hello—hello. Is this the News? Give me the city desk, please."

Sadie handled the telephone to Maizie.

"Here, you talk to them, Mrs. Ashe. You can ask things better than I can."

Ashtoreth stood in the door, like a pale ghost, with her hand against her throat. Maizie was crisp and businesslike.

"Hello—is this the city desk? Your announcer has just broadcast news of an airplane accident. We didn't hear it all. Can you tell me about it?... What?... Oh, you don't know?... But they were flying from New York? Yes, yes. We particularly wanted to know the names of the passengers. Two of them? Perhaps you'd be good enough to give me a number and call me back, if you get a report. Well, that's very nice of you. The number is Kenmore 05103. Mrs. Ashe—yes, Mrs. Joe Ashe. Oh, you did? Yes, he was on the Globe for a good many years. Mr. Burton, you said? Then you'll call me, Mr. Burton, later? Thank you very much."

"What mother? What is it?"

Ashtoreth's voice caught raspingly in her throat.

"There's a plane missing," reported Maizie. "It left New York at six o'clock. A commercial plane, piloted by a man name Burns. He had two passengers aboard. They're worried because of the fog and the plane hasn't any landing lights for night flying."

"The man on the desk said he'd call back. He knew your father. They used to work together, he said. And he'll telephone us, as soon as they hear anything."

Maizie put her arms around her daughter. "There, honey, you mustn't take on. You got just as white as a ghost. Lands, I didn't know anything'd give you a turn like that."

"And you told me she wasn't in love!" bantered Sadie, looking at Maizie. "Say, when a Jane like Ash comes so darn near pullin' a faint, I guess she must be in a tough way."

"It isn't Monty!" protested Ashtoreth.

"No? Well, it must be something you et," mocked Sadie. "Only I'd call it Love—I would."

The telephone rang sharply.

"There, I bet that's Monty now," declared Maizie.

She took the receiver down.

"Yes—yes, Mr. Burton. What! What's that you said? Oh, my God, no! There's some mistake. There's some mistake, I said. Yes, yes—she's not Monty."

"No? Well, it must be something you et," mocked Sadie. "Only I'd call it Love—I would."

The telephone rang sharply.

"There, I bet that's Monty now," declared Maizie.

She took the receiver down.

was. Yes, this evening. No—no, I tell you. Ashtoreth gripped her mother's shoulders. And Maizie, as she turned from the transmitter, thought that she had never seen eyes so big and frightened. Nor a living face before that was whiter than death.

She put her hand over the mouth of the instrument. No, dear—it's not that. Not Monty."

Then, into the phone, "Just a minute, Mr. Burton. Hold the line a moment. My daughter is here now. Will you hold the line, please, until I speak to her?"

Maizie's cheeks were pale, and there were lines, that had come like lightning, to crease her face in ugly folds.

"I tell you, dear," she insisted, "it's nothing about the plane. For goodness sake, take that expression off your face! You give me the horrors. Sadie, take her in the other room, like a good girl. It's a little private business I have with Mr. Burton."

She turned to the telephone again. "Yes, Mr. Burton. Now will you repeat that, please?... Yes, yes, I told you she was. Yes, this evening. No, she hasn't. Not a thing—no, I tell you it's a mistake. You—you wouldn't print anything like that, Mr. Burton? It's a lie, that's what it is. A lie, I said—you heard me. What! Who did? What papers? But it's a lie! I don't care if every paper in New York printed it—that doesn't make it the truth does it? Listen, Mr. Burton—Maizie's voice was wheedling now.

"You said you was a friend of Joe's, didn't you. Well, no friend of Joe's is going to print stories about his daughter. Yes, yes, I know, well, New York isn't Boston, and we can't help that now. The other papers all have it? Oh, my God, Mr. Burton! Can't you stop them?"

Ashtoreth threw aside Sadie's encircling arm.

"Mother, what is it? Tell me this minute! It's something about me." She drew Maizie from the telephone. "Let me speak to him."

But Maizie pushed her aside. "Listen, Mr. Burton, you call me back in 10 minutes. Yes, I'll speak to my daughter. I'll give you a statement in 10 minutes. You can talk to her yourself if you want to. In 10 minutes I said."

She hung up the receiver, and walked, like a person in her sleep, into the living room. Sadie rose dumbly from the divan, to face her. Ashtoreth put trembling hands on her shoulder. And they stood, white and cold, like a tableau. Waiting for Maizie to speak.

"It's about you," she said, looking at Ashtoreth, and her voice was strained and jerky. Not at all like Maizie's voice.

"Mr. Burton says there's a story in New York about you and Hollis Hart. Some New York papers used it in the afternoon in the last edition. They didn't get it in time for Boston. It's going to be in all the morning papers, he says. About you and him... being together, Ashtoreth."

Maizie's voice broke. "It ain't true, what he says?" she cried. "Say it ain't true, Ashtoreth."

"What does he say, mother?"

"He read me the wire. It said—" Maizie gulped. "It said something about 'Hollis Hart, well-known man about town, returns on S. S. Juana with stenographer.' And he made some wise crack about a tropical island romance."

"Well, I'll be darned!" Sadie slumped on the divan "Go on, Mrs. Ashe!" she commanded. "Go on. Spill the dirt."

(To Be Continued)

Sadies believes the worst. And then, on top of everything, comes news of the missing plane.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation!"

Perfect regularity is possible to-day, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form: the very delightful-tasting, candy Cascarets gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit. Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascaring tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drugstore must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

acquired only the laxative habit. Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascaring tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drugstore must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

WHY DON'T YOU?

"The Sunshine Spends Its Winters Along the Rio Grande" WHY DON'T YOU?"

In the magic land of the Valley of the Lower Rio Grande dreams of boundless wealth are coming true. Where cactus grew in 1911, stands today the "City of Palms" McAllen, a town of 14,000 people, with 23 miles of paved streets—on the "Longest Main Street in the world," extending from Brownsville on the Gulf to the shores of the Rio Grande and Old Mexico on the West. "55,000 in 1933"—in five years—is the slogan in McAllen. With two railroads, the Southern Pacific and the Missouri Pacific, with the distinction of never having had a hurricane or severe tropical storm, in a valley that has the richest and most productive soil in the world, with 12 months of growing season and sunshine, with irrigation water supplied when and where it is wanted, McAllen and the Lower Rio Grande command more than passing attention. South by 450 miles of Lower California, and 200 miles farther south than the citrus belt of Florida, it enjoys the distinction of having had a low temperature of 32 degrees F. only 159 times in 31 years, according to the records of the U. S. Weather Bureau, while California, by the same authority, has had 32 degrees F. 218 times in 16 years. Here the golf course greens are as luxuriant in December, January and February as at any other season and no winter rules are needed.

In 1904 there were only two banks in the entire Rio Grande Valley with deposits aggregating $216,000, while the scores of banks now carry deposits of over $22,000,000.00. In the same year the assessed valuation in Hidalgo County, in which McAllen is located, was less than $3,000,000, now it is $51,000,000. And the growth has only commenced. McAllen sees the future and has provided for it by making its corporate limits 5 miles wide by 16 miles long. The McAllen Development Co., composed of the leading bankers, business and professional men of McAllen, "where Nature never sleeps," have set aside a tract of land on the banks of a 15-mile long lake, and all of it within two miles of McAllen, which is offered to the investing public at prices within the reach of the average retiring business man or farmer. Through its trained horticulturists, these tracts are set out to citrus trees and cared for during the first three, or formative years, after which they begin bearing and should produce for life with ordinary care. There is a well-founded adage in the citrus belt which runs like this: "Take care of an orange or grapefruit orchard for three years and it will take care of YOU for the rest of your life." This company will replace any tree within three years that does not grow, and will take care of orchards for non-residents after three years at a nominal cost, through its large organization, should the purchaser so desire.

The next EXCURSION for McAllen leaves Chicago on Feb. 9th and takes ONE WEEK for the round trip. The rates are very low and include Pullman service, auto tours, sight-seeing trips and a chicken dinner in Old Mexico. Make up your mind now to go where discriminating investors are going and have your Winter Home produce Profit as well as Pleasure by the time you want to spend your winters there.

SPICES, SUGAR
SALT, MAKE COOKING ART

BY SISTER MARY

Just at this season of the year when most of us rely on shipped or canned foods, seasoning and "flavoring" is a fine art. The clever cook will never add enough seasoning of any sort to let that taste stand out to the exclusion of all other flavors. She will work to "bring out" the natural flavor of the food and give it that intriguing "fresh from the garden" taste.

Salt, sugar, spices and fruit juices are at the hand of every cook and do much to give point to other flavors.

A few grains of salt should be included in every dish prepared. Fruit cups, salads, sherbets, every dish that is served will be improved by a little salt.

SUGAR HELPS MEATS
And by the same token sugar is added to many vegetable and meat dishes to bring out flavor. A few grains of sugar included in the seasoning of meats develops richness and tastiness.

Lemon and orange juice come next in importance. Extra sugar, with the few grains of salt added with lemon juice to any fruit concoction, improves the flavor and if fruit has lost its first freshness the judicious use of lemon juice does most to restore it. For a most common example try adding one tablespoonful of lemon juice to the next apple pie you bake, particularly if the apples have become a bit wilted and tasteless.

No matter whether a sweet or tart fruit mixture is wanted, a dash of lemon juice will bring out the flavors and aid in blending a combination into a smooth and delectable whole.

Some tart fruits are made more bland by the use of orange juice. Strawberries that are used in any fashion save "au naturelle" are vastly improved if a few tablespoonfuls of orange juice are added with the sugar.

Spices also can be used to develop flavor.

Nutmeg, ginger and cinnamon are the most commonly used. Sprinkle oysters over so lightly with nutmeg the next time you make a stew or cook them in any way. The flavor of spinach is accentuated by a dash of nutmeg with the lemon juice.

Add a sprinkle of nutmeg with vanilla in cake, cookies, sauces or icings or custards to obtain a delicate yet definite vanilla flavor.

Cinnamon with vanilla develops chocolate flavor whenever this is used in cakes, puddings or beverages.

GINGER HAS USES

Ginger is more valuable in bringing out flavors than the average housekeeper realizes. Care must be taken that it is evenly distributed through the mixture because ginger has a decided tendency to lump. Any pudding that is definitely flavored with lemon is enhanced by sprinkling of ginger. Fruit salads are made more interesting if a little ginger is added to the dressing.

Several vegetables gain a decided freshness of flavor if a tiny bit of ginger is thoroughly mixed with the sugar and salt used for seasoning. Carrots, cabbage and string beans have been experimented with and found greatly improved.

The one precaution to keep in mind is never to use enough seasoning to smother the natural flavor. Use only enough to develop and bring out the distinctive flavor of the individual foodstuff.

These same condiments can be used to give variety of flavor to many dishes. The predominance of any given flavor in seasoning changes many mixtures into something different and acceptable on that account.

War Spelled Disillusion
For Women, Says Diarist

"Miss Ex" ... "the war killed idealism in women"

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

NEW YORK—"If there were no war, women should stay home."

Her voice was bitter. Through her mask her dark eyes held nothing but scorn. Her slender, delicately formed figure in the lovely jade green velvet gown and glowing amber necklace, was tense, haughty, defiant.

She spoke with the authority of experience. She was an entertainer who enlisted early in the war and got overseas after the Armistice. Ten years after the war she feels that "now it should be told."

She has done so. In a diary of an entertainer called "Those War Women," which will be published next month, this obviously well-born young person tells of the disillusioning experience war was to many gently reared girls.

Even for the purpose of interview, this ex-war worker refused to disclose her identity. She remained "Miss Ex."

WAR—"A LARK FOR WOMEN"
"What I have to say is not personal," this masked "Miss Ex" began in a low voice with a quality of tears in it. "There must be hundreds of war women who speak through me. There must be innumerable disillusioned war women who went through the chance to sacrifice for their country, expecting to take part in the real crusade, and found war a lark for women."

"Many war workers were young girls from sheltered homes. It is hard to realize today the terrible shock they got from coming face to face with the realization of some of the horrors of war times—the drinking, the immorality. Even when they themselves remained aloof, something in them crumpled at the stark ugliness of war-time life."

"I am convinced that though there may have been an element of love of adventure in their motive, most of those war women really wanted to perform an unselfish service for their country. They were aching to sacrifice, to slave, to hurt themselves enthusiastically into real drudgery to help win the war."

"It killed something in them to find that they entered a round of gaiety, with late rising, spiffy luncheons, teas, dancing, dinners and little parties—if they wanted them. Their wholesome enthusiasm developed into a futile frustration feeling that instead of helping win the war they were entered in a competitive race where they would be considered miserable failures unless they were admired by men. They found that while they might win the war, women just must win the men."

"There were many examples of nobility, of course. Many women who got stuck in out-of-the-way places and slaved 16 hours a day in canleons or hospitals. There were many splendid men who tried to shield the girls from knowing the terrible truths that were obvious about them."

"But the terrible love theme that ran through the war, wrecking the idealism of war women, was that of women who learned to love men who were already married."

From the luxurious passage over to the royally sumptuous residence back, "Miss Ex" felt that the war let women down. She said:

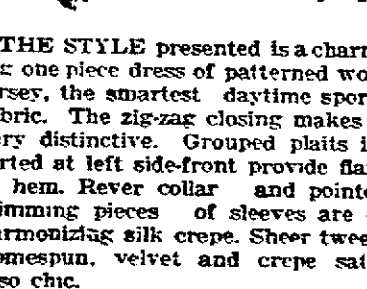

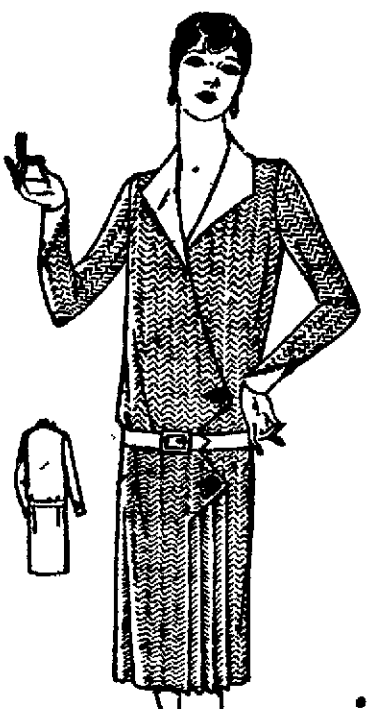

"It almost seemed that entertainers were sent abroad to cheer the officers the only ones who had leisure and money. And it seemed that the more money they had, the more they thought they needed cheer-ing. In retrospect, it seems worse than a terrible useless expenditure of money to take women to war. The war may not have killed women. But it killed something in the some kind of idealism that the race needs."

"When anything as grim as war stalks the world, it seems to me that women should be protected as much as possible. It may sound traitorous to modern woman but, if another war ever comes, I feel that woman's place is in the home."

"LINDY'S GIRL"
NOW MARRIED TO AIR PILOT

BY ALLENE SUMNER

A little girl who once flapped pancakes for "Slim Lindbergh" of the air mail when he boarded at her mother's home in Maywood Ill., married another mail pilot the other day. Her marriage was heralded with such headlines as "Lindy's Girl Married Another." Just one of the penalties of fame—to be unable to even eat girl-flapped pancakes without the girl being drawn into one's vortex of publicity.

Still, probably the girl didn't mind. After all, it's human for youth to like attention even if it only because it once touched the hem of the garments of the great.

BREAKFAST—Chilled apple sauce, cereal cooked with raisins, cream, crisp broiled bacon, creamed potatoes, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of marrow-fat bean soup, rye bread and butter, hearts of lettuce with French dressing, cabinet pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Roast loin of veal, mashed potatoes, piquant baby carrots, jelly tomato and banana salad, pineapple charlotte, milk, coffee.

Marrowfat beans usually cost a few cents a pound more than navy beans but are well worth the difference in price. The difference in the beans is worth considering. A marrowfat bean is large, rich and has a thin covering, while a navy bean is small, lacking in richness and has a thick covering extremely irritating to some people.

CABINET PUDDING
Stale sponge cake, 1-2 cup seedless raisins, 3 eggs, 2 cups milk, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1-2 teaspoon grated nutmeg, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Butter a quart pudding mold and sprinkle with raisins. Add slices of sponge cake, sprinkling raisins between each layer. Fill mold about 3-4 full of cake and raisins. Beat eggs slightly with sugar, salt and nutmeg. Gradually beat in melted butter and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. When thoroughly mixed, pour over sponge cake mixture and let stand until cake absorbs liquid. Place in a pan of hot water, cover with buttered paper and bake one hour in a moderate oven. Unmold and serve warm with hard sauce or fruit liquid sauce.

Shredded citron and candied fruit can be used in place of raisins if a more elaborate pudding is wanted.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE giant still stood right up straight, and Scouty shouted, "Say, that's great. You surely are a real strong man, but now your house is gone. You spoiled it when you lifted it, and we don't like that one bit. It will not be much fun for you to sleep out on the lawn."

"Ha, ha," the giant laughed. "Hee! Won't start to worry over me. Why I can fix this house up fine, with hammers, nails and such. Right now, of course, it looks real bad, but it won't turn out quite so sad. The small repairs will take an hour, and won't amount to much."

"You're very kind, it seems to me," said Scouty. "And you've set us free. You know that we appreciate this kindly thing you've done. And now, I have a plan in mind. I'll prove that we're also kind. We're going to help you fix your house. That ought to be real fun."

This made the friendly giant grin. "All right," said he. "We'll all begin by driving little nails in where the frame came from the floor." He handed little hammers 'round. The Tynymites dropped down on the ground, and soon the merry little bunch were all at work once more.

Just as they finished with their task, the giant whispered, "All I ask is that you all be quiet. All the Trouble Tots are near. Perhaps you do not think I should, but I am going to spank them good for playing tricks on us. I think they'll soon be here."

The giant and the Tynymites then were all real quiet once again. The Trouble Tots came sneaking up. The giant's chance was grand. He jumped right out and shouted, "Hey!" and ere the queer tots ran away, he pounced upon them very quick and seized them in his hand.

(The Tynymites save the Trouble Tots in the next story.)

When Crystal Hathaway left the offices of the Fruit Wholesale Hardware Company with two weeks' salary and the shame of having been fired for the ironic reason that she was trying to "make" Stanton society on a private secretary's wage, she had no idea that two days later her movements would be of intense interest to a million people.

She knew nothing of the future. She knew, indeed, that she could not bear to live to see what the future would bring her, if she could not immediately find the one person who had loved her utterly.

As a score of then uninterested persons reported later, Crystal Hathaway went to the downtown intersection station and boarded the car which would take her to Pablo.

The police learned later how she stumbled down the steps of the car at the little box of a station near Grayson's dairy farm, but for a time her movements were shrouded in blessed privacy. No one saw her strike off across the field, for she waited until the interurban train had clanged away into the distance.

She had no plan; she was simply going to Pablo, would beg him to forgive her and marry her. What did it matter that he had been only a "greaser" farmhand, that his mother was a Mexican woman whose ways could never be her ways? What did anything matter but that she loved the handsome, dearest, most chivalrous boy in the world and that he loved her—or had loved her, before she had been so cruel to him?

Crystal almost ran across the big pasture beyond which lay the splendid white house and the giant red barns of the Grayson place. Cattle grazed languidly on the frost-nipped

NORMALCY IN CHILDREN IS EXPLAINED

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Children in these days of intensive analysis are divided roughly into two classes. Either a child is "normal" or he isn't.

It must bother parents a lot, this glib usage of a word so vaguely defined. To most people it doesn't mean a thing in the world. Normal! What is normal?

They gaze uneasily at Tom, or Ruth, or the twins, and wonder if they are of the elect. If so, why? And if not, why not?

So it seems only fair to give them something to go by, a sort of scale of psychological weights and measures, so to speak, by which they may classify their offspring.

EXTRAVERTS—AND INTROVERTS

To be more precise there are two general classes of children, but not "normal" and abnormal. These other classifications go by much more formidable names. One is "introvert," and the other is "extravert."

The pure type of introvert is a dreamer. He is happier in his thoughts than in his surroundings. He might be described as feeding on his feelings. Usually he is artistic and imaginative. He is not assertive and withdraws himself from people and events. He is not necessarily morbid but often is thought so. This type of child is sensitive and usually possessed of what we call inferiority complex. Quite often he is unhappy.

THE OTHER EXTREME

The extravert is exactly the opposite. He draws his interest from people and things around him, is inclined to dominate others, and usually tries to work things out to his own advantage. Often he is extremely selfish and domineering. He is confident and assured. What he

DON'T STARVE TO END FAT

Few succeed without harm. Try the modern way, embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen everywhere.

Marmola contains a gland element which helps turn food into fuel and energy. The formula appears in every box, also the reasons for results. Thus you will know how the changes occur without guesswork.

All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Go start it now. Take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Do this because of the new beauty and vim which Marmola has brought to so many, for so long.

does is always right, he thinks, if he thinks at all. He has what we call in common parlance, a superiority complex. The true extravert is not a likeable child as a rule. He is likely to be unreasonable, quarrelsome, and to develop sudden tempers.

The normal child is about half-way between these two classes.

Probably most children lean a little either one way or the other, or both, for it is quite possible to possess traits belonging to both classes. Few, however, are absolutely pure types. We often call a certain child an "introvert" or an "extravert" when he really isn't at all. We merely mean that he has a tendency in that direction.

A whole German town was recently made invisible from the air by means of a smoke cloud which rose from vessels containing a secret chemical compound.

GROWING LADS
NEED FOODFACTS

Parents Should Explain the Place of Sugar in Nutritious Diets

Thoughtless parents sometimes tell their children that sweets are bad for them. This is misleading. An eminent specialist states positively that it is not good sense to deny children sugar. Sugar may properly form a part of the regular diet in the kitchen and on the table.

Proper nutrition to children is so important that patient parents take the time and the trouble to explain it in detail. Medical authorities are warning the public these days to see that growing children and young people understand the importance of eating enough nourishing food. Young girls must be watched or they will become victims of the dangerous craze for slimness—becoming thereby easy prey to tuberculosis and other diseases.

Teach your children that it is dangerous not to eat plenty of body-building, health-giving, energy-developing foods. Sugar is invaluable in making all kinds of healthful cereals, fresh and canned vegetables and fruits more palatable and enjoyable.

Children will eat nutritious foods with more zest if they are properly sweetened with nature's ideal flavor. Sugar is food in its least expensive form. Modern candies containing nuts, fruits, milk, chocolate and sugar make excellent desserts. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

DON'T BOTHER
FINDING GIRL
FOR THIS DANCE

This is a word of warning meted out to only those fortunate males who have been included on the guest list for the third annual teachers' party being given by the Appleton Woman's club — none others need read: "If you have been chosen to cross the threshold of the Elks club Friday night, don't bother bringing your lady friend with you — there'll be plenty of them there."

The teachers' party is an annual mixer for teachers and townspople, and it has been discovered that the "unattached method" of inviting guests promotes a more informal atmosphere. Hence the admonition that "dates" be left at home. The guests will be received by members of the board of education, of the woman's club board, and officers of the Elks club. Dancing and cards will furnish entertainment, and the party will begin at 8:30.

Traffic Through Forest Junction Is Obstructed for Several Hours

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction — The derailment of two freight cars from an undetermined cause on westbound train No. 49 between here and Dundas, shortly after 7:30 Tuesday morning, obstructed traffic on the Northwestern road through here for several hours.

One toppled over the embankment at the side; the other fell into an awkward position across the right of way. The wreckage was not cleared away until in the afternoon, and the passenger train due here at noon was detained to Manitowish in the meantime over another division.

After-Effects of Flu More Dangerous Than Flu Itself

One of the peculiarities of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset. Constant "dosing" for the colds which come so frequently after a flu-attack still further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite, just when the body needs nourishment more than ever.

And yet these colds are so apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia that they must be treated at the first sign.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting a delicate digestion. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

MORE CAGE BOOKING AT FOREST JUNCTION

Forest Junction — Undaunted by the fact that all previous appointments for basketball games during the month of January were obliged to be canceled, with only a single exception, Manager Claude Thomas for the local players, Stockbridge is the latest scheduled opponent, with a game arranged to be played there Thursday evening, and a return game at the community hall here a week later. Two games scheduled for last week, one for Tuesday evening, the other for Thursday evening, were abandoned with players unable to reach their appointments over snow bound roads.

Mrs. Theodore Kersten entertained a class of her students in music in the studio at her home on Sunday evening. Changing the room into a replica of a photographer's studio, "flashlights" furnished a principal part of the entertainment. CUT DOWN CURRICULA, EDUCATOR ADVISES

Daytona Beach, Fla. — (AP) — Education, like legislation, may become too highly detailed for general use and efficient operation, in the opinion of Dr. John T. Tigert, president of the University of Florida.

Curriculum of the curricula of educational institutions is advocated by the educator as, one of the ways to eliminate wasted expenditure. He further recommends earlier entrance and graduation of students and the operation of educational machinery on a business basis.

American students, he says, are graduated two years later in life than those of Europe.

Democratization of junior education is another feature pointed to by Dr. Tigert as wasteful.

"We have as many as 60 or 70 courses in our high schools, and our system now is articulated with industrial order," he asserts.

For every inch of stature a man should weigh three pounds and 5 ounces.

HIT LOW SCORES TUESDAY IN GAMES AT BOWLING MEET

Moose Recreations, Kenosha, Top Five Man Teams With 2,886

SHEBOYGAN—(AP)—Low scores in the general Tuesday night in the state bowling tournament as teams from Sheboygan Falls, Plymouth, Manitowoc, Sheboygan and Milwaukee took the drives for the evening shifts.

A Milwaukee kegling duo of W. Vick and F. Dale proved the lone exception, garnering a substantial total of 1,187 to crowd into fifth place among the leaders of the doubles event. Vick had a total of 584 and Dale had 603. The duo got off at a flying start with an opening game total of 478, Dale turning in a 256 count.

The best five men score clicked off during the evening was a mediocre 2,620 total rolled by the North End Clothing company of Manitowoc, the lone entry from that city to take the drives for tournament bowling Tuesday.

Bowlers from Oconomowoc and Jefferson made their initial appearance in the present meet in the late evening shift, with Milwaukee and Sheboygan teams taking up the remaining halves.

Fond du Lac pin aggregations, unable to reach this city to bowl on Jan. 25, are scheduled to roll on the late shift Wednesday night, having switched tournament dates with the Prance Company maple collectors of this city. The impassable condition of the roads prevented the change.

GARDEN OFFICIALS PLAN TOURNAMENT

Winner of Heavyweight Eliminations to Meet Dempsey

New York—(AP)—With the signing of Paulino Uzcudun for a bout of Feb. 22 with K. O. Christner, Madison Square Garden has revealed plans for six heavyweight elimination battles during the coming year. The wind-up, under present plans, will come in September with Jack Dempsey in his old role of gladiator rather than promoter.

The Garden's plans, as outlined by Colonel John S. Hammond, acting general manager of the corporation, are:

Paulino-Christner, Feb. 22; winner to meet Tim Heesey.
Max Schmeling-Johnny Risko, Feb. 1; winner to meet survivor of Heesey and Paulino or Christner battle.
Survivor of these matches to clash with the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling bout in Miami Beach, Feb. 27.

Ultimate survivor to battle Jack Dempsey probably in one of New York's ball parks in September.

OUT OF THE PAST

One of the last important fights signed to the accompaniment of popping champagne corks was the Jess Willard-Frank Moran match in 1916 which brought Tex Rickard back into the fight promotion game and gave him his dream of New York. The articles were signed in Considine's famous cafe at 42d street and Broadway, New York.

On the extreme right of the picture is Tex Rickard, who wasn't flush in those days and who got his backing for the fight from Sam McCracken, general manager of Barnum and Bailey's circus. Next to Rickard is Bob Vernon, the big wine man and on his right is the Dorgan, Moran's manager. On Dorgan's right is McCracken, the "angel" of the fight and next in line is Tom Jones, Willard's manager.

On the extreme left is Sam Marburger, manager of Jack Dillon, who had told the gathering that his man could lick either one of the big fighters and he later made a mess out of Moran. Second from the left is Harry Fink, the first American taken prisoner by a German submarine and the man who made a record by sitting through a six-day bike race in the old Garden without sleeping. Next to Fink is Jack Curley, the celebrated wrestling promoter, who was always a big man at any kind of a gathering.

Around The Sport World

HOW ABOUT THE NOTRE DAMES

THE University of California, according to its alert public relations counsel, played to more customers last fall than any football team in the country. The Californians drew 427,099 paid admissions to 10 games.

Santa Clara drew 42,500; St. Mary's, 55,444; Washington State, 23,879; Southern California, 74,245; Olympic Club, 32,497; Oregon, 17,866; Washington, 21,244; Nevada, 10,950; Stanford, 32,070; and Georgia Tech, 65,404.

NO CONTRACTS NEEDED

Directors of Madison Square Garden couldn't find among Tex Rickard's papers anything to show for a lease of an option on the Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds in New York. When they investigated they found that no papers had been signed and that Rickard, in his characteristic way, was operating on his word of honor.

"The Yankee club never signed any contracts with Rickard," Ed Barrow, business manager of the club, said. "Our business relations were always conducted on the basis of word of mouth agreement. We never found any reason to regret. Rickard had first call on the use of our park for boxing, and if that is considered an option the option continues for the Garden corporation."

JINTS WANT DEMPSEY

The attitude of the Giants on the boxing privilege at the Polo Grounds has not been made known, but it is understood that the use of the big park will be open to bidders.

Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, is said to have told several promoters that the men who succeeded in signing Dempsey for his expected comeback would get the park.

He would like to promote the match himself, it is understood, if he could get some practical front man like Floyd Fitzsimmons to handle the details.

Unless Dempsey feels that he is bound to the Garden corporation out of respect for his late pal he might decide to promote his own comeback with some front man, and Fitzsimmons would be the logical man.

Dempsey and Fitzsimmons have been great friends for years and Dempsey is a great fellow for giving his friends a break.

TRY AND STOP HIM!

The owners of the other National League clubs might not be so eager to see Brother Stoneham going actively in the business of promoting prize fights. Brother Stoneham used to promote a race track in Cuba, and he finally surrendered to the wishes of his brother magnates and had his name taken off the programs. But it is doubtful that the brothers could prevent him from tagging a nice, clean, honest prize fight. And they say all of them are that now.

The magnates tried to prevail on the Giants and the Yanks several years ago to keep boxing out of their parks, but there was too much dough in it as a sideline and the magnates who kicked loudest were those who had parks in towns where boxing wasn't hot.

LEGION AGAIN WILL SPONSOR BALL TEAM

Clarence Baetz, president of the Fox River valley baseball league and athletic officer of Oney Johnston post of the American legion will have charge of the legion junior baseball team this summer, according to plans recently completed. The state again will be divided into a district for state championship purposes, while the state champion will meet those for North Dakota, Minneapolis and South Dakota in region four elimination meet. The winners of the regional meets will clash to determine the winner of the western sectional winner to determine the national champions.

CLAIM KAUKAUNA YOUTH GUILTY OF ILLEGAL PUNCHES

Shack Also Gets Vacation For Being Out of Condition

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—Phil Zwick, of Kaukauna, who won a bout with Sammy Shack of New York here Sunday night, was suspended indefinitely from the ring by the Wisconsin State Athletic commission Tuesday and Shack was suspended for a period of 60 days, as the result of that bout.

Zwick is "suspended until he appears before the commission for an explanation relative to the use of the kidney and rabbit punch during his contest with Shack," the commission announced, while Shack is "suspended for being overweight and his poor showing in his bout with Zwick."

Zwick has an engagement at Akron, O., Wednesday night and is scheduled to box Johnny Datto in Cleveland, Feb. 19.

The commission also suspended Carl Conti, of Rockford, Ill., for 30 days for fouling Cliff Allemen at the Gateway Athletic Club amateur show held at Kenosha, Jan. 17.

Louie New, of Milwaukee, was up before the commission for an explanation relative to his rough tactics and hitting in the break away in his boxing contest with Sammy Ward, of Chicago, here Jan. 22.

The commission authorized the following professional boxing exhibitions: Antlers Club, Milwaukee, Feb. 14; Brown-Cox Boxing Club, Green Bay, Feb. 18; and the following amateur shows: North Side Owl Athletic Club, Milwaukee, Feb. 12; Elks Club, Milwaukee, Feb. 21; Knights of Columbus, Milwaukee, Feb. 22.

MUCH ADO ABOUT SEVERAL THINGS

APPLETON skaters who took part in the annual Northeastern Wisconsin races at Green Bay Sunday aren't appreciative of the judging at the Bay meet. They claim most everything was done to beat them out in several races as was indicated in the senior men's events when the judges hesitated for several minutes before deciding that Clem Kitzinger had not cut a corner. Art Roemer was disqualified for cutting when he might have won the race while the opinion was that Ramona Ryan finished so far in front in her race that there wasn't even a ghost of a chance in questioning her right to the victory.

Kaukauna high school is having a terrible time trying to arrange a football game for next fall and to date has only four games with valley and league opponents. The Kaws haven't a game with Appleton yet for this fall and they aren't a bit backward in intimating that maybe Appleton doesn't care to meet them. The Orange schedule has been arranged a bit differently this year and because the Kaws meet V. Green Bay on the only date, Appleton has open they haven't been able to arrange a game. But there's a long wait before next fall and perhaps things may be smoothed out.

It certainly isn't to either school's credit to be harping "Appleton won't meet us" and that "Kaukauna won't have much of a team anyway and our schedule is closed." Appleton-Kaukauna games have been a feature attraction in high school football circles for years and there's no reason for abandoning the game now. The Kaws have been beaten plenty in recent years and because the highs take a wallop once in a while there's no need to steer clear of them. Let the officials of the two schools get together, each in a half way receptive mood and settle the date of a game.

Kaukauna boxing fans probably are up in arms over the report from Milwaukee that their pride and joy, Phil Zwick, has been indefinitely suspended by the state boxing commission. The commission alleged that Phil used the rabbit and kidney punch in his recent encounter with Shack in Milwaukee, the two punches being illegal. George Downer of the Milwaukee Sentinel comes to Phil's rescue with a burning editorial in which he accuses the commission of most everything and of giving Zwick a raw deal in particular. But until the commission changes its opinion, Phil will remain idle and Kaukauna fans will have something to talk about.

Penn Students Will Be Limited In Athletics

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The University of Pennsylvania Tuesday announced a new departure regarding control of undergraduates in sport competition. Hereafter freshmen will be limited to participation in but one sport, except in rare instances and upper classmen will be held to two forms of competition, except in particular cases.

The new policy, which the recently organized coaches association will put into effect Feb. 11, at the beginning of the second term of the academic year, provides:

That no freshman shall compete in more than two sports without the board's approval.

Penn coaches believe the average varsity man who is active athletically throughout the year has difficulty in keeping up with his studies and taxes his strength too much. In future, if he desires to compete in three sports he must convince the coaches that his class work will not suffer thereby, nor will he be undertaking too great a physical burden. The same rules will be applied in limiting freshmen to one sport.

Paul Scull, Penn's football captain last fall, was cited as a type of athlete who probably would not be held to the two-sport program. An outstanding football man, Scull is also a member of the basketball squad and expects to turn out for baseball this spring. Scull is an excellent student and physically is apparently well able to stand up under competition in three sports.

The Coated Paper team led by Kneip took an early lead in the game and at the end of the quarter led by a 9 to 3 margin. They increased the advantage for the half and had run the score to 14 and 8 at the end of the period. Kneip, R. Reetz and Bowly led the scoring in the second half and at the three quarter mark the Papers were ahead 24 to 14, winding up the game with a final count of 36 and 25.

In the second game of the evening the Citizen's Bank team failed to have the usual romp with the league teams and had to battle all the way before beating out the Fox River Paper team. At the end of the first quarter the Bankers led 3 and 0 but rushed ahead to take a 15 to 4 advantage at the half. R. Tarnow of the Papers then took a hand in the evening's melee and added four goals by C. Tarnow worked the Fox River count to 21. However, the lead the Bankers had acquired at the end of the first half was too much to overcome and the game ended 29 and 21.

SEVEN WINNERS IN PLAY TOURNAMENT

First Place Competition Will Be Held Feb. 8 at Madison

Seven district winners have been chosen in the second state-wide home talent tournament, and these winners are now beginning their semi-final contests to select three groups which will try for first place at Madison, Feb. 8, the last day of Farm Folk Week.

The district winners are: district 1, including Milwaukee, Wauwatosa, Racine, and Kenosha counties, the Oakwood community club, Milwaukee county, giving "Merry, Merry Cuckoo"; district 2, including Dane, Iowa, and Rock counties, the Windermere Old Home; district 3, including Washington and Fond du Lac counties, the Richfield drama club, Washington county, giving "Broad"; district 4, including Winnebago county, the Wisconsin community club, giving "Mother's Old Home"; district 5, including Washington and Fond du Lac counties, the Leola community club, giving "Neighbors"; district 6, including Winnebago county, the Leola community club, giving "Neighbors"; district 7, including Winnebago county, the Leola community club, giving "Neighbors".

The Milwaukee and Dane county clubs are meeting at West Allis to determine which shall represent southern Wisconsin at the final contest. Washington and Winnebago counties will meet at West Bend to choose the east central representative, and Adams, Marathon, and St. Croix counties meet at Marshfield to choose the club which is to be the west central entry in the final tournament.

SEEK INSURANCE FOR EMPLOYEES AT CAPITOL

Madison—(AP)—The Capitol-Mutual club, an organization of employees in the state house, has named a committee to take up the problem of state insurance for employees.

The club has planned, before and during several legislative sessions, a proposal for employee insurance and a retirement fund for state workers, but the proposals have never gone beyond that stage.

The committee is expected this year to propose to the legislature that an interim committee be named to investigate the possibility of placing state employees on somewhat the same basis as teachers so that the retirement fund could be developed. The element of political dismissals and other discontinuations of services, not entering in the usual employment situations, will enter the plans.

Would Designate Lakes For Fishing Purposes

BY B. A. CATLIN

With the convening of the coming legislature, not only in Wisconsin, but in surrounding states, many changes in existing fish and game laws will no doubt be made. Some of these must be made to conform with conditions, but they will be made only after careful consideration of the situation.

A somewhat radical, but a wise move nevertheless, is under way in Michigan where they are considering about the same problem we are facing in Wisconsin. There is action afoot to close all inland lakes in Michigan to all kinds of fishing until July 1st. This is a desolate prospect from the angler's side, and an unnecessary one so far as certain species of game fish are concerned.

Now, what this move, some of the most influential, successful and best posted sportsmen over there, among whom may be mentioned, Lou J. Eppinger, former vice-president of the Michigan division of the Izaak Walton League, Leo J. Smith, outdoor editor of the Detroit Times, and Ivar Hennings, nationally known sportsman and booster for constructive conservation, of South Bend, Indiana, and others of like caliber, have started a movement to have certain lakes set aside for earlier fishing than is now allowed. That is, for walleyes, or pike perch, from May 1.

That is a wise and perfectly safe move. The walleye is one of the finest of food fishes. He is a willing fighter and the most plentiful by far and the easiest fish to propagate that they have, or that we have in Wisconsin.

The walleye is through spawning by May 1st. As they maintain in Michigan, our lakes could be easily divided into waters known as bass lakes and those known as walleye lakes.

For instance we could safely classify Post Lake and Pelican Lake as walleye waters; farther north, in Vilas and Oneida counties there are hundreds of lakes which could also be divided; and in the western part of the state many more.

In Wisconsin, we are allowed ten walleyes per day, of a length not under 13 inches; and the open season begins May 25. This should be changed to May 1. The opening season for bass, which now, in all waters save Green Lake, is June 20, should be corrected. In Door-co, the season of thousands of fishermen, should be changed to July 1, or even later. The bass are not through spawning by June 20, and the fishermen take them right off the spawning beds. Any fair minded sportsman will admit that is wrong.

COURSE TO TEACH TREE TRIMMING TO LINEMEN

Madison—(AP)—Instruction of electric and telephone company linemen on the art of trimming trees without ruining them will be the purpose of the short course the department of horticulture of the University of Wisconsin will give in cooperation with the Wisconsin Utilities association and the Wisconsin State Telephone association from Feb. 12 to Feb. 15 inclusive.

As the number that can be accommodated is limited, all applications must be presented by Feb. 8. All who fulfill the requirements of the course will receive certificates. The course opens Feb. 12 with the following subjects included: In the three and one-half day course: How trees grow. How to know trees. Getting acquainted with trees. Rights of the Public and Rights of the abutting property owner on the public highway. Attitude of the corporation towards the property owner and the public. How to approach the property owner. Wood Preservation. Handy methods in heavy trimming, and things other than tree trimming a trimmer should know.

It should be changed to at least conform with that of Green Lake where the water is deep and cold as it is in Door-co.

Let us hear from the fishermen who favor this change in season for walleye fishing and we will start a movement accordingly so that it can be brought to the attention of the legislature this winter.

"The Firefighters"

The shipping districts of cities that are on rivers, lakes or the sea are hard to protect by land companies. For these districts cities maintain fire boats, which really are floating fire engines. Formidable looking nozzles fore and aft give the boats the appearance of naval ships.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-25.

Most of these boats are built all of steel and cement. Sometimes they are obliged to approach a fire very closely to fight it.

The water is pumped up over the side, into an air chamber, then into pipes running around the deck with many outlets for hose connections.

Powerful streams are shot out from these boats. The monitor nozzle on one boat, the New Yorker, shoots a stream that can make a hole in a brick wall. The boat can bombard a burning ship or warehouse with a veritable cascade of water. (To Be Continued)

HORTONVILLE PASTOR TO GO BACK TO CHINA

Missionary Who Left During Outbreaks Receives Call to Return

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—After two years as pastor of the Baptist church of Hortonville, the Rev. Gerhard Jacobson and Mrs. Jacobson have received a call from the Interdenominational Church and Missionary alliance, whose headquarters are in New York to return to China. The couple with their three daughters returned to America about three years ago after seven years of foreign service. Their departure from the Chinese missionary field was caused by the revolution in that country, during which missionaries found their lives in danger and further work barred. Throughout all this time the New York office of the alliance had found it dangerous to send Americans back into the field, but recently a treaty has been agreed upon by Chinese government and missionary societies which makes it possible for a few to return.

The call came only a short time ago and the Rev. Mr. Jacobson declared that he and his wife feel much gratified to know that they, among many who wish to return to the field, have been selected. They have sold their household goods and car and will leave on Wednesday or Thursday for Chicago. There they will remain for a month with members of their families and will sail upon the Empress of France from Vancouver on March 9. The trip to their destination will take a month and Mr. Jacobson is uncertain whether it will be possible to go at once to their former home at Wu Hu, or whether his wife and daughters will remain in Shanghai until proper arrangements may be made.

FACE QUANDARY

The house formerly occupied by the Americans is now the residence of a Chinese official and Mr. Jacobson says that the process of getting him to vacate may be a long and arduous one, requiring the use of much tact so that the already unstable relations between the two factions may not be in any way disrupted. All property owned and occupied by Americans and foreigners from other countries was confiscated by the Chinese revolutionists.

Wu Hu is a considerable distance inland, but both Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson through their seven years previous sojourn there are attached to the country, the people and their work. Their children were born there and the family has had many interesting tales to relate. Whether the work they will do will be school and evangelistic work or whether in the business department, the Rev. Jacobson does not know. During their term of service before they were in charge of schools and evangelistic work.

Parishioners of the little church are at a loss how to proceed, for the departure of their pastor is one which is felt in an unusual way. The Rev. Jacobson has brought much to the success of the church during his stay there and, though constantly knowing that the little group were simply marking time against the time that China should again be safe for missionaries, it was not anticipated that the break would come so soon. Mrs. Jacobson is a talented musician and has also made a place for herself in the community. Her husband has spoken before service club gatherings in this city.

A farewell reception was given to the family on Monday evening at the Hortonville church, at which the Rev. Mr. Jacobson gave a lecture which he illustrated with scenes of the places formerly visited in his work in China.

NEW LONDON PERSONALS

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Mr. and Mrs. William Paulin and son Jack returned to their home at Marshfield Monday after a two weeks visit spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Booth.

Community Is Emerging Slowly From Isolation

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—After a week of tunneling through drifts and bucking hard encrusted snow, New London and community are coming out of isolation and traffic is slowly being restored. Mail men on rural routes on Tuesday reported that the condition of their country routes is "pretty tough." They are carrying mail, however, and by painful detours and slow twistings in and out of farm orchards and fields each day are covering more territory than the day previous. Some of the roads are cleared, but many are not and the detours have to be planned so that each patron gets his mail.

The county road truck equipped with shovel came through from Appleton clearing a narrow track on highway 26. The track is not wide enough and much too narrow to permit safe passage of the Inter-county busses, but H. C. Graupman with his crew went through Wednesday in an attempt to clean up the rough snow and widen the track.

A truck and crew of men were clearing city streets this week. The huge drifts on each side of tracks cleared testify to the great fall of snow and the labor taken to clear them. Many cars have not been used since street clearing has begun, for each would-be motorist's driveway is blocked with drifts banked up by the shovel on the truck. Downtown streets present precarious footing and citizens are asking for sand so that they may walk without endangering life and limb.

WINDOWS BROKEN BY SNOW HURLED FROM HUGE PLOW

Fond du Lac—(P)—Every window fronting on the highway of Anton Karle's home was smashed by snow. But that exaggerates the intensity of the snow storm. A huge snow plow was sent in to this territory by an Iowa contractor for demonstration purposes. Equipped with saw-like devices that "chopped out" the snow and ice, and passed it back into the machine, the plow threw the snow and ice over the side of the road and crushed snow banks every window on one side of the house. People, trees and other objects in the yard were used to keep the plow from facing into new windows could be installed.

One may either prepare the mixture at home, or as most people prefer to do, but it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the ready-to-use preparation and since all druggists sell it at 75c a bottle, there is really no need of going to the trouble of making it yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or toothbrush with it, and draw it through the hair, one strand at a time. One application banishes the gray and one or two more completely restores your gray, faded or streaked hair to its original color. There is no artificial, dyed look. The whole effect is one of perfect naturalness. If you are not perfectly satisfied, your money would be refunded. It is the work of the thousands of men and women who use this preparation.

Toad Believed Centuries Old Resumes Nap Again

Fredrick, Oida — (P) — Learning no lesson from his last hibernation which resulted in a nap that paleo-hip Van Winkle's into something less than a wink, Pleisty has resumed his custom of sleeping away the winter.

Pleisty, if introduction is necessary, is one of the toads which aroused a furore of scientific argument by emerging alive from balls of rock-like clay found in a stratum of the Pleistocene age. Believing that the reptile belonged to that older generation, dating back some 500,000 or 750,000 years, his owner, A. H. Holloman, named him after it.

The stratum in which the imprints and toads were found is in Holloman's gravel pit on top of the "blest hill" in Clinton county. Although it is more than 200 feet above the present bed of the north fork of the Red river and some ten miles away, geologists agree the stratum once lay in the river bed and was lifted by erosion.

While some of the toads were found before the rescue of their famous friend, Pleisty, from the corner stone of a court house at Eastland, Tex., where it was represented to have lived 20 years without food and water, their discovery was not announced until later for fear of ridicule.

All the toads were virtually transparent when they were freed from their rock prisons. Their skins were white, and pink could be read through their bodies. Their stomachs had shriveled and their mouths had grown shut, but they were unmistakably alive.

Some died immediately after exposure, but Holloman saved several by burying them in sand and gradually acclimating them. One died when a kind hearted woman provided a feast in the form of a worm. There has been no effort to feed the survivors, but their live day after day, breathing, perceptibly.

LEGION COMMANDER WILL VISIT HERE WHEN TERM EXPIRES

Tells Vets He Regretted
Cancelling of Armistice
Date

Col. Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American legion who was forced to cancel his speech here on Armistice day last year because of his election to the national office will visit here as soon as his term expires and he can get away, he informed Appleton legionnaires who attended the mid-winter conference of legion officers at Portage Monday afternoon. Five Appleton men attended the meeting. Marshall C. Graff, commander of the Ninth district, James D. Balliet, commander of One Hundred post, Eric Madisen, editor of the Badger Legionaire, L. Hugo Keller and John Hantschel. The state officers endorsed the proposed children's code which will be presented to the Wisconsin legislature this winter and started a movement to interest members of the posts all over the state in adoption of the law as a first step in future plans were made for a series of eight conferences in Wisconsin cities to explain the code to legionnaires and to others who might be interested. Two of the conferences will be held in the Fox river valley, one in Fond du Lac and one in Green Bay. The Green Bay meeting will be held March 1, and efforts will be made to have judges, district attorneys, other law enforcement officers, civic and fraternal club members attend the meeting and become acquainted with provisions of the legislation. Aubrey Williams, Madison, secretary of the state society of social workers probably will explain the law at the Green Bay meeting. Veterans also endorsed another bill now in the state legislature, extending the final step in filiation for the state bonus to July 1, 1931, and will give numerous veterans a chance to receive the money they neglected to ask for several years ago. Two other bills which will receive legion support are those giving disabled ex-service men an extra five points in civil service examinations, and one which requires all institutions to investigate and report on death certificates whether a person is an ex-service man. The latter provision is to stop burial of ex-service men in pauper's graves, the former to give disabled veterans an extra opportunity when writing civil service exams. Veterans now are given five extra points on their exams, while the disabled vets will receive ten points if the bill passes. Only one Appleton man appeared on the state meeting program. He was Eric L. Madisen, editor of the Badger Legionaire who addressed the group on the policy of the Badger Legionaire magazine now being published monthly.

9 FIRMS BID ON SANATORIUM ADDITION

Nine sets of plans and specifications for the proposed addition to the Riverview sanatorium already have been given out to contractors by John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Bids on the proposed addition are to be opened on Feb. 11 when they will be opened and if the plans are found satisfactory the contract will be let and the work started at once. Six Appleton, one Kaukauna, one Neenah and one Milwaukee firm have copies of the plans and are planning to submit estimates.

MARSTON COMPANY IS CITY PIONEER

Only Three Firms in Appleton Older Than Marston Concern, Rotary Told

The history of the Marston Brothers Company, which this year celebrates its fifty-first anniversary, was told by Roy Marston at the meeting of Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. While tracing the history of his company, Mr. Marston brought in historical facts about the coal business in general and about the city of Appleton. There are in Appleton today only three places of business that were in existence in 1878 when the J. H. Marston company was organized by J. H., C. L. and Hugh D. Marston. These are Pettibone Peabody company, O. F. Schaefer and Galpin brothers. At that time the Marston company was located on S. Oneida street just below the drawbridge, and it dealt chiefly with construction materials. Inasmuch as there was no American cement on the market at that time, a great activity of the company was mixing mortar for masons. For the hauling of coal and limestone the company ran a steamboat called the "J. H. Marston." In 1913 the boat was junked, and it is now resting at the bottom of the Fox river near the S. Oneida street bridge. According to the speaker, the first notation on the books of the company in 1878 was an order for building material for Henry Hilbert. Members of the Marston Brothers company now are C. L. Roy and Guy Marston.

ONE DAY LEFT TO PAY DOG LICENSES

Tags Must Be Secured by
Last Day in January, State Law Provides

With only one day remaining in which to pay licenses on dogs only slightly more than half the dog owners in the city had secured new tags for their pets by Wednesday, it was reported Wednesday morning by Fred B. Bachman, city treasurer. Dog licenses must be paid by 4 o'clock Thursday evening, the hour at which the treasurer's office closes. Failure to do so will subject the owners for illegally harboring a dog. January is the period designated by state law in which to pay such licenses. The treasurer pointed out. Because the period for tax payments has been extended to the end of February, some doubt apparently exists regarding the exact time for dog license payments, according to Mr. Bachman. Many people have the erroneous impression that these licenses do not have to be secured before Feb. 1.

Approximately 525 licenses had been issued by the treasurer by Wednesday noon. It is estimated that the dog population of the city numbers almost 1,000. More persons have paid these licenses the first three days this week than during the entire month up to Monday. Early in February, police officers will canvass the city to determine the number of dog owners who have failed to buy tags.

BROKEN EQUIPMENT SLOWS UP JOB OF OPENING HIGHWAYS

Little Progress Is Made by County in Effort to Push
Snow

Hampered by constant breaking down of snow removal machinery county road engineers have made little progress since Tuesday in opening highways closed by snow. Two four wheel drive trucks went out of commission in the last 24 hours, leaving only three trucks available for service. Two of the county's four tractors also are out of commission. One four-wheel drive truck smashed an axle north of Black Creek on Highway 47 and another smashed its transmission pushing a drift on Highway 26, south of Leppa's corner. Telephone calls to various sections of the county revealed that the road to Seymour, although reported open Tuesday, was not open Wednesday morning.

The plow apparently had opened about two miles of County Trunk east of the intersection with Highway 47 and then was unable to proceed further. Further calls revealed that tractors and plows had succeeded in opening Highway 47 from Appleton to Black Creek and from Black Creek to Seymour. One truck had started north from Seymour on Highway 47 but it broke down sometime Wednesday morning. Another truck broke down after it hit a snow drift on Highway 26 about three-quarters of a mile south of Leppa's corner. A third truck was in the garage for repairs and has been there for some days. Highway 76 from Greenville to Greenville Corners is open but only because the farmers shoveled the snow out by hand. A county plow broke down trying to open this section.

A crew of county employees is working on Highway 55 north of Seymour, but it is not known how much progress has been made. The county plow broke down on Highway 41 from Appleton to the Brown-co line; Highway 76 and 26 from Appleton to New London; Highway 10 from Appleton to the Waupaca line; Highway 47 from Appleton to north of Black Creek and Highway 54 from Black Creek to Seymour. Shawanago has opened Highway 47 south to the Outagamie-co line but the road north from Black Creek to the county line still is closed.
